Spies Eyed Spies In Confusion, Ex-Agent Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Army intelligence coordinator says competition in the military's domestic spy business was so great that unwitting agents sometimes wrote reports on one another.

Then there was the case, said Lawrence Lane, now an aide to Rep. Robert N. Giannino, D-Conn., when an antiwar rally outside Ft. Carson, Colo., brought together 53 agents to watch 66 civilians.

Specter Of U.S. Master List Hangs Over Student Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The specter of a federal master list hangs over a forthcoming tangle over whether students convicted in connection with campus disturbances should be given government education aid.

The White House wants to eliminate a restriction barring aid to convicted campus disrupters.

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, chief congressional proponent of the three-year-old ban, says he expects it to stay in appropriations bills now beginning their route through Congress.

Smith said he'll ask the Department of Health, Education and Welfare at budget hearings next month to explain how they're enforcing the ban.

Smith said in an interview agencies are "supposed to administer it one way or another. To really do it right," he continued, "you'd have to have some kind of list."

A White House aide called the restriction an administrative nightmare and declared: "We don't like the language and we want it out."

Pointing to problems of administration, especially concerning students who transfer from one school to another, he said the provision "assumes there's a good list and a bad list, and any student who gets on the bad list, the computer says 'bingo' and he doesn't get anything. But there's no list."

HEW figures for fiscal 1970 show 40 students from 12 institutions lost their federal aid because of the legislation. The government gave loans or loan guarantees to 1.7 million students that year.

Smith predicted if the ban is discontinued, Congress will not expand the loan and guarantee program. President Nixon asked in his higher education message this week for an expansion of the program to an additional 1 million students.

The request to knock out the campus-disturbance provision was not in the message, however. It was buried deep in the appendix to the federal budget—and even there, showed up only as deletion brackets around the existing language.

The White House aide said the provision also is opposed because it constitutes indirect punishment for a crime. "In general, in law enforcement, we prefer direct penalties," he said.

Clean Slate For Cons Eyed

State Bill Would Erase Records

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A second chance for ex-convicts was proposed by State Rep. C. J. McLin Jr., D-88 Dayton, asked Thursday with introduction of a bill in the Ohio House.

The McLin measure would permit courts to erase a person's criminal record after he has completed a successful and "straight" period of probation.

The bill is expected to get lengthy hearings when it is assigned to the House Judiciary Committee.

The McLin legislation was one of 15 bills introduced into the House's afternoon session. Three minor measures were received by the Senate.

Both houses of the General Assembly recessed for the weekend, to reconvene at 7:30 p.m. Monday. They will go into a joint session at 8 p.m. to hear Gov. John J. Gilligan present his state of the state message.

The House also passed a bill by Rep. Ray Luther, R-19 Newark, eliminating the need for corporations to buy new license tags for vehicles it obtains in a merger or corporate reorganization.

Luther said many mergers, especially in the trucking industry, are now timed to take place when new tags are required to save money and time. The freshman representative assured the House the bill would not cost the state money.

The bill passed 797. It now goes to the Senate.

A proposal to amend the Ohio Constitution to allow local police to use state tax money for state traffic law enforcement was also introduced into the lower chamber.

At present, Ohio law requires fees and taxes from motor vehicle regulations to go only to meet the "expense of state enforcement of traffic laws."

If approved by both houses, the issue, sponsored by Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-21 Bournville, would be to voters in November.

Shoemaker's amendment to change the wording to read: "expense of enforcement of state traffic laws."

Storms Rake Deep South, Extend North

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms raked parts of the Deep South today and springlike rains extended northward to the central Midwest.

Colder weather brought snow to inland areas of the Pacific Northwest and the northern and central Rockies.

A tornado watch was in effect in the predawn hours for sections of Louisiana and Mississippi. Severe thunderstorm warnings were out in adjacent southeast Texas.

A twister touched down Thursday night northwest of Alice, Tex., but there were no reports of damage or injuries.

New-fallen snow combined with strong winds brought travel warnings in mountain areas of Colorado. High-wind warnings flew over northern New Mexico.

The gusty winds dipped southwest into Southern California, where visibility was reduced locally near zero due to blowing sand and dust.

Fair and mild weather favored a large part of the East.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 8 at Rock Springs and Laramie, Wyo., to 75 at Miami and Key West, Fla.

Inductee Forces Jet To Canada

SEATTLE (AP) — A 19-year-old U.S. Army inductee from California who said he wanted to go to Cuba hijacked a Western Airlines jetliner with 97 persons aboard Thursday night and settled for a landing in Canada.

The plane, which carried 67 Army inductees, was on a flight from San Francisco to Seattle when it was hijacked over Medford, Ore. It landed in Vancouver, B.C., where Royal Canadian Mounted Police took the unnamed soldier into custody.

After the plane was checked and the other 90 passengers cleared customs, they were flown to Seattle. The plane had a crew of six.

Capt. Bruce DeSpain, pilot of the plane, said that about 40 minutes out of San Francisco the inductee told a stewardess he had a bomb under his shirt and wanted to be taken to the flight deck.

There, the man told the captain he wanted to be flown to Cuba, DeSpain said. Informed the plane did not have enough fuel for such a flight, DeSpain said the soldier then insisted he wanted to go to a foreign country.

DeSpain said he suggested Vancouver and the long-haired, mustachioed inductee agreed.

The pilot said that when the plane landed the soldier asked DeSpain not to go near the terminal building. He asked to talk to the tower.

DeSpain said the inductee told the tower he had no bomb and wanted to give himself up.

County's Outstanding Young Educator Is Logan Elm Mathematics Teacher

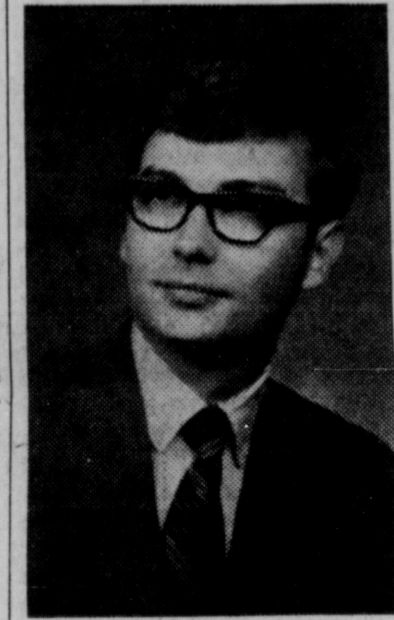

A Logan Elm High School mathematics teacher, David Lee Beavers, has been named the outstanding young educator of the year by Circleville Jaycees.

"We feel that we are extremely fortunate in having David Beavers on the faculty of Logan Elm High School," says John Henn, executive head of LE school district.

"His knowledge of all branches of math and his ability to impart this knowledge to his students are second to none. Since he joined our faculty we have been able to reorganize and improve the math department to a very high level.

"His contribution to this improvement has been very substantial. We at Logan Elm High School wish to join the many others in extending our sincere congratulations to David Beavers for the honor given him. We also wish to thank the Circleville Jaycees for making this honor possible," Henn stated today.

THE 26-year-old educator is a graduate of Logan Elm and received his bachelor of science and his masters degrees from Ohio University.

DAVID BEAVERS

Married, he and his wife Judith reside on Route 4. Mrs. Beavers is the librarian at Logan Elm High School.

Beavers majored in mathematics and has a minor in history and government. His masters degree was in secondary administration.

While in college, he was consistently on the Dean's List, was a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa Honor societies. He completed his post graduate work during the summers of 1967-68-69 at OU.

He presently holds an 8-year professional teaching certificate and a 4-year provisional high school principals certificate.

He began his teaching career at Circleville High School in 1966. He has been at Logan Elm since 1968.

THE LE math teacher is a member of the following organizations:

Ohio Education Assn., Logan Elm Classroom Teachers Assn., United Methodist Church, Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa.

He is president elect of the LECTA and last year was building representative. He is also a member of the negotiation committee and had the responsibility of writing the new negotiation agreement.

At Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, he teaches the fifth and sixth grade level Sunday School Class and is the adviser of the Junior Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Columbus Twister One Of 11 Expected In Ohio This Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The tornado which struck Columbus Monday is the first of 11 twisters expected to hit Ohio this year, the state climatologist said Thursday.

Marvin Miller, climatologist of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), said Ohio each year since 1955 has had an average of 11 tornadoes, causing six deaths, 75 injuries, and $4 million in damage.

The twister which touched down Monday on Columbus' East Side caused no deaths, but six were injured and damage was over $2 million.

"That damage figure far exceeds the average," Miller said, because often tornadoes strike in isolated rural areas, and damage might not amount to more than a few thousand dollars. But this one hit in a major city area, so property damage was high."

An exceptionally large number of tornadoes hit Ohio during the last two years, the climatologist said in a report on "Tornado Time in Ohio" issued Thursday. Forty twisters ripped across the state in the two-year period, causing five deaths, 380 injuries and about $20 million in property damage.

But 1965 was the worst year in recent history. Thirty-two tornadoes strafe Ohio, 12 of them in a five-hour period the night of April 11, which left 57 dead and more than 300 injured.

Miller issued the tornado statistics as part of Skywarn, the annual campaign to prevent loss of lives during tornadoes. The campaign is conducted by the Weather Service and its parent organization, the NOAA.

Most tornadoes in Ohio strike in April, May, June and July, Miller said, and generally they appear between 3 and 10 p.m. coming out of the southwest or west. But he added, "Ohio has had them every month and at all hours of the day."

If a twister has been sighted, a "tornado warning" is broadcast. The public is urged to seek shelter in the center area on the lowest floor of a reinforced building, Miller said, and stay away from windows.

Cars, trailers, and less sturdy buildings are vulnerable, he added, and offer less safety.

The break at the entrance of Plaza Apartments on Nicholas Drive, occurred 3:45 a.m. The city water department was not alerted until sometime between 6:30 and 7 a.m.

Within moments of being notified, the department was able to restore adequate service.

Water leaking from the elevated tank caused the pressure drop, according to Chuck Taylor, public utilities director. By 11 a.m. pressure was approaching normal.

Taylor, in reporting the incident, expressed appreciation for the courtesy shown the department today by people of the city.

Miller said average annual deaths from tornadoes in Ohio have remained stable over the last 20 years, even though population has increased nearly a third. He cited "greater public awareness of precautions to take" as a major reason.

Washington to reflect in part a real fear by Hanoi of invasion, and in part an effort to get more support from the Soviet Union and China.

Hanoi is said to hope stern warnings from Moscow and Peking will discourage any impulsive President Nixon might have to order or approve an invasion of North Vietnam.

As a matter of fact, Moscow, through its news service, Tass, asserted the Soviet Union "cannot remain indifferent to the new escalation of the American aggression" in Indochina.

It promised the Soviet government will continue aiding North Vietnam and declared the United States suffered a "dangerous delusion" in thinking it could act with impunity throughout Indochina.

What the South Vietnamese may eventually do on their own is unpredictable. But there is no indication inside the government that Nixon has considered or is considering a U.S.-supported invasion north of the DMZ under prevailing military circumstances, and it is unlikely Saigon would take such a dramatic step without U.S. approval and support.

450 Defenders Wiped Out; 2nd Camp Hit

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese overrun a South Vietnamese paratrooper base in Laos today, inflicting severe casualties, and aid siege to another in perhaps the heaviest fighting in the war.

The fall of the paratrooper base, Hill 31, was Saigon's second major defeat since the Laos incursion began. Military sources said the 450-man battalion of defenders was nearly wiped out.

The South Vietnamese drive to cut off the Ho Chi Minh Trail in southern Laos appeared to be in serious difficulty. No advances have been reported in more than a week.

Attacking behind tanks, the North Vietnamese secured a lodgement on Hill 31 Thursday and completed the capture this morning in hand-to-hand fighting, allied sources said.

Some of the defenders were reported to have escaped, but their numbers were not known.

In a desperate effort to stave off loss of the post, eight miles inside Laos, the U.S. Command threw waves of fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships at the North Vietnamese.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the South Vietnamese forces in Laos, said "there are hundreds of North Vietnamese dead" around the hill, most of them victims to air strikes.

Shortly before the outpost was lost, two U.S. pilots from a downed fighter-bomber were snatched from the hill. U.S. fighter-bombers made 75 strikes to suppress the deadly enemy antiaircraft fire.

Capt. David R. Hedditch, 28, of Hamilton, Mont., and Lt. Thomas M. McLaughlin, 24, of Melrose, Mass., had spent 21 hours in a trench within 60 feet of the enemy.

Hedditch said a Jolly Green Giant helicopter came in close and lowered its jungle penetrator. "I expected at any time to be shot," he said. "When I got to the chopper I just couldn't believe I had been rescued."

An Associated Press correspondent reported from the forward support base of Khe Sanh that an American helicopter pilot flew back from one mission with 20 AK47 bullet holes in his craft.

The pilot was signaled down to the outpost by troops "popping green smoke." They were North Vietnamese dressed in Republic of Vietnam uniforms. "They got them from the dead, I guess," the pilot said.

Saigon Threat To Invade North Discounted

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Vietnamese threats to invade North Vietnam are almost totally discounted in Washington, but U.S. officials indicate they are making a serious impact in Hanoi.

The idea of such an invasion was put forth again this week by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, who was quoted as saying an attack on the North is only a matter of time.

In Saigon, a spokesman for Thieu said today the president had been quoted inaccurately and out of context.

Although the American officials say there are no plans for such a strike north across the demilitarized zone they take seriously evidence Hanoi is concerned, but probably not to the extent its public statements indicate.

According to analysts here, Hanoi leaders now see their territory becoming vulnerable to a degree previously unknown in the Indochina war, because of the growing strength and mobility of the South Vietnamese army. In addition, the North Vietnamese army, although still tough and experienced, has been weakened by massive losses in recent years. It is estimated North Vietnam's troop strength is 500,000 men; South Vietnam's 1.1 million.

This is a situation the reverse of that existing before the United States entered the conflict with full air and ground forces in 1965.

Hanoi's reaction so far has been to issue strong accusations against the United States and Saigon, charging them with plotting an invasion.

Washington to reflect in part a real fear by Hanoi of invasion, and in part an effort to get more support from the Soviet Union and China.

Hanoi is said to hope stern warnings from Moscow and Peking will discourage any impulsive President Nixon might have to order or approve an invasion of North Vietnam.

Under questioning by Ervin, a North Carolina Democrat, Lane related that "rivalry between various military intelligence groups was so great the agents were watching each other to determine what the others were watching." But sometimes, said Lane, they aren't even aware of their competition. He said he once was named on another agent's report as a "dissident soldier" because he was spotted attending a civilian antiwar meeting. Lane said he was there on surveillance duty himself.

Lane was the last of several former agents to testify in the subcommittee's probe of military and their bureaucratic surveillance activities. Like the others, Lane said he and his colleagues maintained extensive files on civilian groups and individuals, often for purposes he said were of no legitimate concern to the Army.

Lane disclosed he had spoken with Pentagon officials a week ago about his testimony, and characterized their reaction as cooperative and genuinely concerned that such practices may have occurred without high-level knowledge.

Technician Quarantined At Moon Lab

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Nancy Klein, a 23-year-old laboratory technician, has been placed in solitary quarantine at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory after she stuck herself with a needle and was possibly exposed to moon dust.

Mrs. Klein was working with moon samples from Apollo 14 when the accident occurred Thursday.

She was quarantined in the mobile quarantine facility, a trailer-like isolation van attached to the quarters where the Apollo 14 astronauts are isolated.

Mrs. Klein was inoculating fertilized hen eggs with a solution of moon dust when the possible exposure occurred, officials said.

She was ordered into the solitary isolation of the van to avoid possibly re-exposing the three astronauts and 14 others in the crew quarters of the lunar laboratory.

A Logan Elm High School mathematics teacher, David Lee Beavers, has been named the outstanding young educator of the year by Circleville Jaycees.

"We feel that we are extremely fortunate in having David Beavers on the faculty of Logan Elm High School," says John Henn, executive head of LE school district.

"His knowledge of all branches of math and his ability to impart this knowledge to his students are second to none. Since he joined our faculty we have been able to reorganize and improve the math department to a very high level."

"His contribution to this improvement has been very substantial. We at Logan Elm High School wish to join the many others in extending our sincere congratulations to David Beavers for the honor given him. We also wish to thank the Circleville Jaycees for making this honor possible," Henn stated today.

THE 26-year-old educator is a graduate of Logan Elm and received his bachelor of science and his masters degrees from Ohio University.

DAVID BEAVERS

Married, he and his wife Judith reside on Route 4. Mrs. Beavers is the librarian at Logan Elm High School.

Beavers majored in mathematics and has a minor in history and government. His masters degree was in secondary administration.

While in college, he was consistently on the Dean's List, was a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa Honor societies. He completed his post graduate work during the summers of 1967-68-69 at OU.

He presently holds an 8-year professional teaching certificate and a 4-year provisional high school principals certificate.

He began his teaching career at Circleville High School in 1966. He has been at Logan Elm since 1968.

THE LE math teacher is a member of the following organizations:

Ohio Education Assn., Logan Elm Classroom Teachers Assn., United Methodist Church, Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa.

He is president elect of the LECTA and last year was building representative. He is also a member of the negotiation committee and had the responsibility of writing the new negotiation agreement.

At Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, he teaches the fifth and sixth grade level Sunday School Class and is the adviser of the Junior Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Columbus Twister One Of 11 Expected In Ohio This Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The tornado which struck Columbus Monday is the first of 11 twisters expected to hit Ohio this year, the state climatologist said Thursday.

Marvin Miller, climatologist of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, (NOAA), said Ohio each year since 1955 has had an average of 11 tornadoes, causing six deaths, 75 injuries, and $4 million in damage.

The twister which touched down Monday on Columbus' East Side caused no deaths, but six were injured and damage was over $2 million.

"That damage figure far exceeds the average," Miller said, because often tornadoes strike in isolated rural areas, and damage might not amount to more than a few thousand dollars. But this one hit in a major

Water Main Ruptures

Circleville residents were without water this morning when a six-inch water main break reduced water pressure at too low a level to supply water to consumers.

Most of the city was affected. The break at the entrance of Plaza Apartments on Nicholas Drive, occurred 3:45 a.m. The city water department was not alerted until sometime between 6:30 and 7 a.m.

Within moments of being notified, the department was able to restore adequate service.

Water leaking from the elevated tank caused the pressure drop, according to Chuck Taylor, public utilities director. By 11 a.m. pressure was approaching normal.

Taylor, in reporting the incident, expressed appreciation for the courtesy shown the department today by people of the city.

city area, so property damage was high."

An exceptionally large number of tornadoes hit Ohio during the last two years, the climatologist said in a report on "Tornado Time in Ohio" issued Thursday. Forty twisters ripped across the state in the two-year period, causing five deaths, 380 injuries and about $20 million in property damage.

But 1965 was the worst year in recent history. Thirty-two tornadoes strafed Ohio, 12 of them in a five-hour period the night of April 11, which left 57 dead and more than 300 injured.

Miller issued the tornado statistics as part of Skywarn, the annual campaign to prevent loss of lives during tornadoes. The campaign is conducted by the Weather Service and its parent organization, the NOAA.

Most tornadoes in Ohio strike in April, May, June and July, Miller said, and generally they appear between 3 and 10 p.m. coming out of the southwest or west. But he added, "Ohio has had them every month and at all hours of the day."

If a twister has been sighted, a "tornado warning" is broadcast. The public is urged to seek shelter in the center area on the lowest floor of a reinforced building, Miller said, and stay away from windows.

Cars, trailers, and less sturdy buildings are vulnerable, he added, and offer less safety than a ditch or ravine in open country. Wind speed within the funnel of a tornado has been estimated at more than 300 miles per hour.

Miller said average annual deaths from tornadoes in Ohio have remained stable over the last 20 years, even though population has increased nearly a third. He cited "greater public awareness of precautions to take" as a major reason.

Israel Hits U.S. Policy On Mideast

TEL AVIV (AP) — Premier Golda Meir told a meeting Thursday night the U.S. government is aware it cannot pressure Israel into giving up three pieces of captured territory.

"The Americans know very well how much we can concede," she said, "and know we cannot concede the Golan Heights, East Jerusalem or Sharm Sheikh."

She said she wanted a secure state, with a clear Jewish majority. This was a hint that Israel would not take back large numbers of Palestinian refugees.

Israeli newspapers reacted with mixed feelings to President Nixon's foreign policy report.

The semiofficial Davar said certain policy positions expressed by Nixon "can only be received here with concern, for they show a readiness to enslave the vita needs of a small nation to the interests of a great power..." But Davar lauded Nixon's promise to back an Arab-Israeli peace with security, and his frank admission of close U.S.-Israeli military ties.

Egypt and Jordan, the two Arab nations involved in peace negotiations, reacted favorably to Nixon's statements on the Middle East, but Syria was critical and Iraqi commentators ignored them.

450 Defenders Wiped Out; 2nd Camp Hit

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese overran a South Vietnamese paratrooper base in Laos today, inflicting severe casualties, and aid siege to another in perhaps the heaviest fighting in the war.

The fall of the paratrooper base, Hill 31, was Saigon's second major defeat since the Laos incursion began. Military sources said the 450-man battalion of defenders was nearly wiped out.

The South Vietnamese drive to cut off the Ho Chi Minh Trail in southern Laos appeared to be in serious difficulty. No advances have been reported in more than a week.

Attacking behind tanks, the North Vietnamese secured a lodgement on Hill 31 Thursday and completed the capture this morning in hand-to-hand fighting, allied sources said.

Some of the defenders were reported to have escaped, but their numbers were not known.

In a desperate effort to stave off loss of the post, eight miles inside Laos, the U.S. Command threw waves of fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships at the North Vietnamese.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the South Vietnamese forces in Laos, said "there are hundreds of North Vietnamese dead" around the hill, most of them victims to air strikes.

Shortly before the outpost was lost, two U.S. pilots from a downed fighter-bomber were snatched from the hill. U.S. fighter-bombers made 75 strikes to suppress the deadly enemy antiaircraft fire.

Capt. David R. Hedditch, 28, of Hamilton, Mont., and Lt. Thomas M. McLaughlin, 24, of Melrose, Mass., had spent 21 hours in a trench within 60 feet of the enemy.

Hedditch said a Jolly Green Giant helicopter came in close and lowered its jungle penetrator. "I expected at any time to be shot," he said. "When I got to the chopper I just couldn't believe I had been rescued."

An Associated Press correspondent reported from the forward support base of Khe Sanh that an American helicopter pilot flew back from one mission with 20 AK47 bullet holes in his craft.

The pilot was signaled down to the outpost by troops "popping green smoke." They were North Vietnamese dressed in Republic of Vietnam uniforms. "They got them from the dead, I guess," the pilot said.

Saigon Threat To Invade North Discounted

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Vietnamese threats to invade North Vietnam are almost totally discounted in Washington, but U.S. officials indicate they are making a serious impact in Hanoi.

The idea of such an invasion was put forth again this week by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, who was quoted as saying an attack on the North is only a matter of time.

In Saigon, a spokesman for Thieu said today the president had been quoted inaccurately and out of context.

Although the American officials say there are no plans for such a strike north across the demilitarized zone they take seriously evidence Hanoi is concerned, but probably not to the extent its public statements indicate.

According to analysts here, Hanoi leaders now see their territory becoming vulnerable to a degree previously unknown in the Indochina war, because of the growing strength and mobility of the South Vietnamese army. In addition, the North Vietnamese army, although still tough and experienced, has been weakened by massive losses in recent years. It is estimated North Vietnam's troop strength is 500,000 men; South Vietnam's 1.1 million.

This is a situation the reverse of that existing before the United States entered the conflict with full air and ground forces in 1965.

Hanoi's reaction so far has been to issue strong accusations against the United States and Saigon, charging them with plotting an invasion. These charges are thought in Washington to reflect in part a real fear by Hanoi of invasion, and in part an effort to get more support from the Soviet Union and China.

Hanoi is said to hope stern warnings from Moscow and Peking will discourage any impulse President Nixon might have to order or approve an invasion of North Vietnam.

As a matter of fact, Moscow, through its news service, Tass, asserted the Soviet Union "cannot remain indifferent to the new escalation of the American aggression" in Indochina. It promised the Soviet government will continue aiding North Vietnam and declared the United States suffered a "dangerous delusion" in thinking it could act with impunity throughout Indochina.

What the South Vietnamese may eventually do on their own is unpredictable. But there is no indication inside the government that Nixon has considered or is considering a U.S.-supported invasion north of the DMZ under prevailing military circumstances, and it is unlikely Saigon would take such a dramatic step without U.S. approval and support.

With resistance broken on Hill 31, the North Vietnamese launched a heavy attack on a second paratrooper base six miles to the southeast, and field reports said they were inflicting heavy casualties.

This is Hill 30. U.S. helicopters were lifting dead and wounded to a forward command post on the Vietnamese side of the border.

South Vietnamese paratroopers were massed along Highway 9, the main road into Laos, ready to go to the relief of badly battered units.

The South Vietnamese reported a North Vietnamese regiment also attacked a position called Hotel 2 and shelled other positions in Laos. Gen. Lam said infantrymen of his 1st Division killed more than 50 enemy troops at Hotel 2 while losing one killed and four wounded.

Field reports said two more U.S. helicopters were shot down in Laos. The fate of their crews was unknown.

The possibility that GI rescue teams might go into Laos to rescue downed airmen was acknowledged by a U.S. Command spokesman.

"If the need arose and an American life was at stake we would do it," he said. "These would not be ground troops sent in to engage the enemy. They would be directly associated with search and rescue."

The loss of Hill 31 came six days after one of Saigon's ranger battalions was routed from a base five miles away with 323 of its 450 men killed, wounded or missing.

The South Vietnamese have been suffering the most severe losses since the big Tet offensive of 1968. Some U.S. officers called the fighting the heaviest in the Indochina war.

Before the loss of Hill 31, Gen. Lam gave this account:

Despite massive American air support, North Vietnamese troops spearheaded by a column of Russian-made tanks overran parts of the base late Thursday.

The battle was "very close combat." Seventeen PT-76 light amphibious assault tanks led the attack on the base about 2 p.m. Thursday. U.S. air strikes drove the assault back, and five tanks were destroyed.

The North Vietnamese attacked again 2½ hours later, Lam said.

"We then destroyed three more tanks, but they continued to attack," Lam old newsmen said. "We had very close combat."

In the parallel drive against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps in eastern Cambodia, more than 300 miles to the south, South Vietnamese rangers reported a lopsided victory in fighting near the Chup rubber plantation along Highway 7.

Backed by air and artillery strikes, the rangers claimed 87 North Vietnamese killed and weapons captured.

South Vietnamese engineers also were reported to have reopened Highway 1, the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway. Attacks by enemy forces earlier this week cut traffic along that supply route.

He believes his strongest characteristic as a teacher is the good rapport he enjoys with the students. "They are willing to ask questions and to bring their problems to me in private conferences," he says of his students.

ON the other end of the ledger, he believes his weakest characteristic is that he sometimes expects too much of the students and becomes frustrated when they do not grasp a concept he feels they should.

Each year he set goals in the fall and then evaluates his progress by seeing if he has met his goals in the spring. He feels that his teaching is mirrored to an extent by the achievements of the students on such standardized tests as the ACT and the SAT, student's awards and grades received on chapter tests.

The most self-satisfaction for Beavers is received when he sees the glow of understanding on the face of a student who has finally grasped a difficult concept or when a graduate returns to thank him for preparing him for college. He gets the same feeling of achievement when parents tell him he is doing a good job teaching their children.

Students are encouraged to achieve self-control in the classroom. No seats are assigned. Few rules are made for classroom behavior. He does not insist that students hand in daily assignments but permits them to do as much as they feel necessary to fully understand the concept.

The students are encouraged to work in small groups on projects so they can exert leadership.

The bulletin board is one of the focal points of his classroom. Displayed on it are stimulating problems or students' work. Classes are usually informal and are based on the discovery technique so that students will not be inhibited in making contributions.

Handicapped Role Explained By CHS Grad

Circleville High School graduate William E. Ebert was guest speaker at Circleville Rotary Club's noon meeting Thursday. Ebert, also a graduate of Ohio State University, is now executive secretary of the Governor's Committee for the Employment of the Handicapped.

He explained to Rotarians that the greatest number of persons handicapped were disadvantaged through automobile accidents. Industrial accidents are next in line as contributors followed by war casualties.

"Industry," said Ebert, "is making an effort to hire the handicapped who are found to be more adept at some jobs than non-handicapped workers." An illustration was as a print developer in photo shops.

Ben Brian of Rotary reminded members of the next visit of the Bloodmobile in Circleville March 5. Red Cross sponsors the Bloodmobile in Pickaway County. Rotary is responsible for soliciting donors.

"We had an outstanding membership organization," Trax said. "Through the efforts of drive chairman, Pastor Carl Zehner, the eight team coaches, the YMCA Board and the many workers, the Y exceeded its goal by $2,700."

First place team winners were the Colts, coached by Ben Brian. Second place team honors went to the 49'ers coached by Paul Marshall and third place winners were the Cowboys coached by Dick Fisher.

TEAM coaches and their teams, of the first three places, will have an opportunity to choose between 12 golf games at Upper Lansdowne, 12 Cliftona Theater Tickets, and 12 Roundtown Players tickets.

Prizes for the eight second place winners are a fire extinguisher from C and I Supply, 10 Burger Chef tickets, golf glove from Upper Lansdowne, lube job from Circleville Oil, and golf balls from Upper Lansdowne.

For the 1971 membership enrollment, Brian won "Top Salesman" honors. He will receive a "weekend for two" at the Christopher Inn in Columbus. In addition to serving as team coach, he sold over $600 in memberships.

SAM Sberna sold the most "new" memberships and will receive a dinner for two at the Wardell Party Home.

The top five players with most yardage will receive "an afternoon work-out and lunch" at the Business Men's Club of the Columbus Central YMCA. Winners are Brian, Nelson Stevens, Mike Bruno, Sam Sberna, and Paul Marshall.

Brian and Nelson Stevens also won prizes for selling the most Century Club Memberships and Sam Sberna paced first in recruiting the most Partner-with-Youth Memberships.

According to Trax, team coaches will choose prizes for team winners, the eight top players and second top players at the Monday meeting of the Pickaway County Family YMCA Board.

'Y' Notes

For the third season, the YMCA will sponsor the Gra-Y Sportsmanship Basketball League. Play will begin 9 a.m. Saturday at the local Y.

League play will be coordinated by Roger Carr, Gra-Y Adviser and students at the Circleville Bible College will serve as officials.

The Gra-Y games, give all boys the same opportunities to play, with sportsmanship being given major emphasis.

Following the 5-week league, winners will participate in a league championship game and invitational tournament.

Trophies and awards will be presented at the Annual YMCA Awards Night Banquet on May 19, 1971.

With resistance broken on Hill 31, the North Vietnamese launched a heavy attack on a second paratrooper base six miles to the southeast, and field reports said they were inflicting heavy casualties.

This is Hill 30. U.S. helicopters were lifting dead and wounded to a forward command post on the Vietnamese side of the border.

South Vietnamese paratroopers were massed along Highway 9, the main road into Laos, ready to go to the relief of badly battered units.

The South Vietnamese reported a North Vietnamese regiment also attacked a position called Hotel 2 and shelled other positions in Laos. Gen. Lam said infantrymen of his 1st Division killed more than 50 enemy troops at Hotel 2 while losing one killed and four wounded.

Field reports said two more U.S. helicopters were shot down in Laos. The fate of their crews was unknown.

The possibility that GI rescue teams might go into Laos to rescue downed airmen was acknowledged by a U.S. Command spokesman.

"If the need arose and an American life was at stake we would do it," he said. "These would not be ground troops sent in to engage the enemy. They would be directly associated with search and rescue."

The loss of Hill 31 came six days after one of Saigon's ranger battalions was routed from a base five miles away with 323 of its 450 men killed, wounded or missing.

The South Vietnamese have been suffering the most severe losses since the big Tet offensive of 1968. Some U.S. officers called the fighting the heaviest in the Indochina war.

Before the loss of Hill 31, Gen. Lam gave this account:

Despite massive American air support, North Vietnamese troops spearheaded by a column of Russian-made tanks overran parts of the base late Thursday. The battle was "very close combat." Seventeen PT76 light amphibious assault tanks led the attack on the base about 2 p.m. Thursday. U.S. air strikes drove the assault back, and five tanks were destroyed.

The North Vietnamese attacked again 2½ hours later, Lam said. "We then destroyed three more tanks, but they continued to attack," Lam old newsmen at Khe Sanh. "We had very close combat."

In the parallel drive against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps in eastern Cambodia, more than 300 miles to the south, South Vietnamese rangers reported a lopsided victory in fighting near the Chup rubber plantation along Highway 7.

Backed by air and artillery strikes, the rangers claimed 87 North Vietnamese killed and weapons captured.

South Vietnamese engineers also were reported to have reopened Highway 1, the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway. Attacks by enemy forces earlier this week cut traffic along that supply route.

He believes his strongest characteristic as a teacher is the good rapport he enjoys with the students. "They are willing to participate freely in class, to ask questions and to bring their problems to me in private conferences," he says of his students.

ON the other end of the ledger, he believes his weakest characteristic is that he sometimes expects too much of the students and becomes frustrated when they do not grasp a concept he feels they should.

Each year he set goals in the fall and then evaluates his progress by seeing if he has met his goals in the spring. He feels that his teaching is mirrored to an extent by the achievements of the students on such standardized tests as the ACT and the SAT, student's awards and grades received on chapter tests.

The most self-satisfaction for Beavers is received when he sees the glow of understanding on the face of a student who has finally grasped a difficult concept or when a graduate returns to thank him for preparing him for college. He gets the same feeling of achievement when parents tell him he is doing a good job teaching their children.

Students are encouraged to achieve self-control in the classroom. No seats are assigned. Few rules are made for classroom behavior. He does not insist that students hand in daily assignments but permits them to do as much as they feel necessary to fully understand the concept.

The students are encouraged to work in small groups on projects so they can exert leadership. The bulletin board is one of the focal points of his classroom. Displayed on it are stimulating problems or students' work. Classes are usually informal and are based on the discovery technique so that students will not be inhibited in making contributions.

WEEKLY quizzes are given so students can be frequently evaluated. And tests are always returned promptly.

Students are given the opportunity to make written suggestions on what they like or dislike about the course and the way it is presented.

Beavers will be one of the honored guests at the Circleville Jaycees Distinguished Service Awards Banquet scheduled to start 7 p.m. Monday at the 4-H and Grange Building. Tickets for the event are still available from any Jaycee.

Republican State Rep. Robert E. Netzey of Laura rose during a floor session this past week to oppose a day care bill sponsored by fellow Republican Norman A. Murdock of Cincinnati.

Netzey branded the measure "irresponsible legislation."

The Murdock bill providing for day care assistance for children of the working poor, passed the House anyway, by a vote of 62-34.

That same evening, a day care bill authored by Netzey came before the House Health, Education and Welfare Committee. Murdock is the committee chairman.

Hearings on the Netzey proposal were delayed for more than 90 minutes, prompting apologies from the committee chairman.

The Netzey bill was then referred to a subcommittee for further study.

Franklin Sheriff Hall Succumbs

CLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Franklin County Sheriff Stacy Hall, who successfully switched from professional wrestling to law enforcement, died Thursday in a South Miami, Fla., hospital. He was 62.

County commissioners named his son, Stacy Hall Jr., to serve as acting sheriff until the county Republican central committee names a permanent successor.

The sheriff was in Florida on a combined business-vacation trip when he suffered a stroke Feb. 15 in a Miami restaurant.

Hall was a professional wrestler for eight years before joining the Columbus police department in 1941. In April, 1957, county commissioners appointed him to fill the unexpired term of former Sheriff Ralph J. Paul, who resigned. Hall was elected to successive terms.

Surviving are his widow and three sons, Stacy Jr., Robert S. and Thomas D.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Frustration with strikes is now being expressed not only by management and the public, but by union members and leaders themselves, leading to a renewed study of voluntary arbitration as an alternative.

Earlier quests either led to deadlocks or were abandoned, but some authorities now feel that conditions and attitudes have so developed that possibilities are more real than in years.

A study is, in fact, now being made under the auspices of the American Arbitration Association, with the cooperation of such well known names as I.W. Abel, United Steelworkers president, and R. Heath Larry, U.S. Steel negotiator.

This isn't the first time voluntary arbitration has been seriously considered. It has evolved from time to time and has attained some acceptance in certain industries. Overall, however, it is still little used in resolving bargaining deadlocks.

Why might it be more acceptable now or in the future than it was in the past? Mainly because of the growing resentment of both labor and management, an angry public, and an administration that fears the economic consequences.

If all these factors are not yet fully on stage, says Donald Straus, president of the non-profit AAA, they are least in the wings, and the time for the curtain-raising could be approaching.

The provocateur is inflation, or more precisely, the damage that inflation is doing to paychecks, profits and the economy. And the catalyst that might avert these factors is the clear and present danger to everyone.

"There aren't many villains in this business," says Straus. "They are all people cast in their institutional roles and working to the best of their abilities."

Only if the dangers are clear and present can a statesmanlike attitude be taken by either side. Such conditions existed during World War II, for example, when wages were stabilized with few strikes. But do they exist today?

There is evidence that inflation is a destructive economic enemy, making American goods less competitive abroad, forcing workers to jog on a treadmill, destroying the living standards of those on fixed incomes.

The conditions that lead to acceptance of voluntary arbitration would include a feeling on both sides that there is more to lose than to gain from strikes, that not only would there be lost sales and paychecks, but unacceptable economic destruction as well. Then the parties can become statesmen.

"Anyone would agree that arbitration entered voluntarily is preferable to a strike," Straus believes, but he adds that the emphasis must be on "voluntary." Forced arbitration, he says, has never worked abroad and "I don't think it would here."

But he adds: Even those most opposed to compulsory arbitration would not deny importance of having voluntary arbitration available in the unlikely event they might want to use it.

Would this undermine collective bargaining? "If the two sides agree to arbitration it is in effect an agreement, a successful culmination of collective bargaining," Straus says.

Nevertheless, he remains objectively detached from the situation, carefully observing and recording attitudes and, in the tradition of arbitrators, making himself and the AAA panel available for assistance.

"We are not proselytizers," he says. The AAA's role is to be prepared rather than to promote, to aid rather than advocate. "When called upon," could be its motto.

If you'd like to brush up on what by now be blurred memories of World War II days, I commend Richard Lingeman's "Don't You Know There's a War On." It's a rich mixture of gas rationing days, the Lindy Hop, V-mail, Eleanor, Fala, and other fads and fancies of the hectic days from 1941 to 1945.

Mr. Lingeman reminds us that when the Pentagon was built, F.D.R. explained to people who wondered what could be done with such an enormous building when the war was ended, that it would be used "to store government records and quartermaster supplies." Ho, ho, ho!

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are any foods responsible for spastic colitis?

I get these abdominal cramps often, but I can't decide which foods are giving them to me.

Because one of my favorite indulgences is nuts, I eat them often. I hope this is not one of the forbidden "fruits."

Mrs. J.E.C., R.I. Dear Mrs. C.: I assume that the diagnosis of spastic colitis was made by your physician, rather than by you or by a friend. I say this because the term "spastic colitis" is too often applied to symptoms of abdominal distress and other intestinal complaints.

Spastic colitis or "mucous colitis" is a disorder of the large intestine. Sometimes, the term "irritable colon" is applied to account for the intestinal distress.

Undoubtedly, poor bowel habits, lack of moderation in the use of alcohol and tobacco, and dietary indiscretion are major causes of spastic colitis. The frequent use of laxatives and enemas may also be responsible.

It is well known that young people who are tense, anxious and emotionally distressed frequently reflect their anxieties in intestinal complaints.

It is impossible for you to guess which foods are creating this condition.

The nuts you enjoy so much may be responsible and should be discontinued until a true diagnosis is made.

You should have a complete physical examination followed by X-ray studies of the intestinal tract and microscopic study of the stools, with cultures, to find the exact reason for your problem. It is wise to do it now, rather than to wait until a readily controlled illness becomes complicated and more difficult to cure.

If spastic colitis really is your problem, you must make a complete change in your eating habits. In addition, some psychological guidance to relieve tension and anxiety would be a great contribution to controlling the unpleasant symptoms you now experience.

After their first year, children should be immunized against

German Measles with the newly developed vaccine. It is safe and effective.

Scrooge Is Alive And Well

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some time ago William Rickenbacker, son of Captain Eddie, started a National Right to Privacy Committee. Since public servants must, for the protection of the Commonwealth, lead a goldfish-bowl life, Mr. Rickenbacker will not find much opportunity to proselytize for dues-paying members among Washington's politicians and bureaucrats. Even so, a public figure might reasonably demand the right to associate membership in Mr. Rickenbacker's much-needed organization.

There's Miss Frances G. Knight, for instance, who happens to be the wife of Wayne Parrish, well-known aviation magazine publisher. She runs the passport division of the U.S. State Department and is an incredibly efficient lady; her division actually returns a profit to the U.S. Treasury on its operations. She is also a nonsense person when it comes to speaking her mind.

When Bill Rogers, the Secretary of State, said in so many words that "I regard it of compelling importance that we remain alert to better use of our resources so that different viewpoints are heard and creative ideas brought out," Frances Knight's response to the implied invitation was to let fly with a criticism of the State Department's traditional "use of resources." She was relying on the Secretary's reiteration of President Nixon's policy of maintaining "a receptive and open establishment." Said Nixon, "We would bring dissenters into policy discussions, not freeze them out." In short, let a hundred flowers bloom.

Alas for Miss Knight, she has had a good demonstration that nobody really likes criticism. That State Department Task Force which had recommended outspokenness didn't mean her when they said "subordinates must find the courage to disagree with supervisors when they believe the supervisor is wrong. They must break out of the pattern of conformity which has far too long been the besetting sin of the Foreign Service."

Miss Knight's punishment for her sins of outspokenness took the form of an investigation of her 1969 and 1970 Christmas greeting letters. Since I am on Miss Knight's Christmas card list, I can testify that her annual greeting consists among other things of a perfectly harmless and quite informative recital of the accomplishments of the passport division.

Without bothering to ask Miss Knight, some of her superiors apparently assumed that she had prepared the Christmas greetings on office time and had used office supplies in getting them out.

The administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, ostensibly to prepare for Congressional subcommittee hearings, asked Miss Knight for information about "copies and the number distributed of all Christmas Greetings..." The administrator wanted a full list of those receiving the Christmas cards and the "names of all State Department personnel, if any, involved in drafting, preparation, procurement of supplies for, typing, reproducing, collating, enveloping or mailing any of these 'Greetings' on official time." Another request was whether any official funds were used to get the Christmas cards out. The press was tipped off about the imminent scalping of Miss Knight.

Now you would have thought, wouldn't you, that a simple telephone call to Miss Knight would have saved the government the expense of getting out a detailed questionnaire for circulation and for Miss Knight's reply. She could have saved the department a pretty penny if she had been given the opportunity of telling the truth in a sentence: Her Christmas card was done at no expense to the U.S. government. As it happens, the State Department might have caused Miss Knight's husband, Wayne Parrish, a little embarrassment. The Christmas card happened to have been typed in his office and mailed to Miss Knight's personal list. Mr. Parrish even sent one of his own secretaries out to buy the stamps. Mr. Parrish's employer, the publishing company which owns his magazines, might raise a question or two about the use of the premises for mailing Christmas cards. But private industry, thank heaven, is not as petty as a U.S. government bureaucracy. When 'tis the season to be jolly, good-will is served by not regarding employees as time-servers. If you can drink egg nog on office time, why boggle about a few Christmas cards?

Besides, Mr. Parrish makes money for his employer — just as Miss Knight makes money for the State Department, the old Scrooges.

"School board business is not like it used to be," said an Esmeralda Canning Co. operator James I. Smith died at his home, 1235 S. Court St. at the age of 68. He had started in the milling industry in 1889, and was one of the incorporators of a Circleville leading cannery, The Esmeralda Canning Co., in 1904.

Routes 22, 56 and 104 west of the city were closed to traffic when the Scioto River suddenly rose to 18 feet, Feb. 27.

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory Land is the best place for bargains.

No prices ever go up there, nothing is ever thrown away, and nothing ever wears out. You can have a fine time reliving the past on a minimal budget and pay no charge at all for upkeep.

You don't have any transportation costs getting there either. All you have to do is close your eyes and remember when—

You could always get a laugh by asking an old-timer whether he slept with his beard under or over the bedsheet.

CHUCKHOLES
With the recent freezing and then thawing temperatures, many streets are beginning to develop chuckholes. This happens every year and this year is no exception.

The City Service Department is hard at work trying to get these repairs made as quickly as possible. It seems, however, that as quickly as one is repaired, another one shows up.

It should be pointed out that the only repairs which can be made during the winter while it is still cold, are at best temporary. This is so because no one makes the "hot mix" repair material for permanent repairs until around April 15. The only repair material that can be obtained now is temporary "cold mix" repair material. The cold mix repair will have to be replaced later when the permanent hot mix repair material becomes available.

At the present time the City is compiling a list of places to repair and working on repairing them. We would appreciate it if you would call us at 474-8484 or 474-2965 and report any place in need of repairs.

PUBLIC MEETINGS
Recently you probably have been noticing legal notices, advertisements and public service notices in the paper and radio concerning various request concerning the zoning ordinances. The Planning Commission recommended and later Council approved a provision in the new ordinance which calls for such public notices in an attempt to keep the people of Circleville better informed about such matters.

Many public meetings were held to discuss the Master Plan while it was being prepared and it was felt that it would be beneficial to continue to keep the public both informed and educated in these matters by encouraging open public meeting. Attendance at these meetings by the general public has been good and people have expressed their pleasure with having the continuing public type meeting. Everyone is invited to attend any of the meetings and to make inquiries concerning matters pending before the Planning Commission.

WATERSOFTENING
After several delays, the watersoftening project is again moving forward. This past Tuesday a contract was approved for a watersoftening feasibility and cost estimate study. The study to be completed in around 90 days will enable the City to then determine exactly what course should be followed to get the City's water softened.

The above are several ways the City is trying to better Circleville by better serving you.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Frustration with strikes is now being expressed not only by management and the public, but by union members and leaders themselves, leading to a renewed study of voluntary arbitration as an alternative.

Earlier quests either led to deadlocks or were abandoned, but some authorities now feel that conditions and attitudes have so developed that possibilities are more real than in years.

A study is, in fact, now being made under the auspices of the American Arbitration Association, with the cooperation of such well known names as I.W. Abel, United Steelworkers president, and R. Heath Larry, U.S. Steel negotiator.

This isn't the first time voluntary arbitration has been seriously considered. It has evolved various forms from time to time and has attained some acceptance in certain industries. Overall, however, it is still little used in resolving bargaining deadlocks.

Why might it be more acceptable now or in the future than it was in the past? Mainly because of the growing resentment of both labor and management, an angry public, and an administration that fears the economic consequences.

If all these factors are not yet fully on stage, says Donald Straus, president of the non-profit AAA, they are least in the wings, and the time for the curbing-raising could be approaching.

The provocateur is inflation, or more precisely, the damage that inflation is doing to paychecks, profits and the economy. And the catalyst that might excite these factors is the clear and present danger to everyone.

"There aren't many villains in this business," says Straus. "They are all people cast in their institutional roles and working to the best of their abilities."

Only if the dangers are clear and present can a statesmanlike attitude be taken by either side. Such conditions existed during World War II, for example, when wages were stabilized with few strikes. But do they exist today?

There is evidence that inflation is a destructive economic enemy, making American goods less competitive abroad, forcing workers to jog on a treadmill, destroying the living standards of those on fixed incomes.

The conditions that lead to acceptance of voluntary arbitration would include a feeling on both sides that there is more to lose than to gain from strikes, that not only would there be lost sales and paychecks, but unacceptable economic destruction as well. Then the parties can become statesmen.

"Anyone would agree that arbitration entered voluntarily is preferable to a strike," Straus believes, but he adds that the emphasis must be on "voluntary." Forced arbitration, he says, has never worked abroad and "I don't think it would here."

But he adds: Even those most opposed to compulsory arbitration would not deny importance of having voluntary arbitration available in the unlikely event they might want to use it.

Would this undermine collective bargaining? "If the two sides agree to arbitration it is in effect an agreement, a successful culmination of collective bargaining," Straus says.

Nevertheless, he remains objectively detached from the situation, carefully observing and recording attitudes and, in the tradition of arbitrators, making himself and the AAA panel available for assistance.

"We are not proselytizers," he says. The AAA's role is to be prepared rather than to promote, to aid rather than advocate. "When called upon," could be its motto.

If you'd like to brush up on what by now be blurred memories of World War II days, I commend Richard Lingeman's "Don't You Know There's a War On." It's a rich mixture of gas rationing days, the Lindy Hop, V-mail, Eleanor, Fala, and other fads and fancies of the hectic days from 1941 to 1945.

Mr. Lingeman reminds us that when the Pentagon was built, F.D.R. explained to people who wondered what could be done with such an enormous building when the war was ended, that it would be used "to store government records and quartermaster supplies." Ho, ho, ho!

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are any foods responsible for spastic colitis?

I get these abdominal cramps often, but I can't decide which foods are giving them to me.

Because one of my favorite indulgences is nuts, I eat them often. I hope this is not one of the forbidden "fruits."

Mrs. J.E.C., R.I.

Dear Mrs. C.: I assume that the diagnosis of spastic colitis was made by your physician, rather than by you or by a friend. I say this because the term "spastic colitis" is too often applied to symptoms of abdominal distress and other intestinal complaints.

Spastic colitis or "mucous colitis" is a disorder of the large intestine. Sometimes, the term "irritable colon" is applied to account for the intestinal distress.

Undoubtedly, poor bowel habits, lack of moderation in the use of alcohol and tobacco, and dietary indiscretion are major causes of spastic colitis. The frequent use of laxatives and enemas may also be responsible.

It is well known that young people who are tense, anxious and emotionally distressed frequently reflect their anxieties in intestinal complaints.

It is impossible for you to guess which foods are creating this condition.

The nuts you enjoy so much may be responsible and should be discontinued until a true diagnosis is made.

You should have a complete physical examination followed by X-ray studies of the intestinal tract and microscopic study of the stools, with cultures, to find the exact reason for your problem. It is wise to do it now, rather than to wait until a readily controlled illness becomes complicated and more difficult to cure.

If spastic colitis really is your problem, you must make a complete change in your eating habits. In addition, some psychological guidance to relieve tension and anxiety would be a great contribution to controlling the unpleasant symptoms you now experience.

Far too often, patients are too frightened to seek the advice of their doctor and for years go on living in fear that a serious problem exists when it does not.

After their first year, children should be immunized against

German Measles with the newly developed vaccine. It is safe and effective.

Scrooge Is Alive And Well

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some time ago William Rickenbacker, son of Captain Eddie, started a National Right to Privacy Committee. Since public servants must, for the protection of the Commonwealth, lead a goldfish-bowl life, Mr. Rickenbacker will not find much opportunity to proselytize for dues-paying members among Washington's politicians and bureaucrats. Even so, a public figure might reasonably demand the right to associate membership in Mr. Rickenbacker's much-needed organization.

There's Miss Frances G. Knight, for instance, who happens to be the wife of Wayne Parrish, well-known aviation magazine publisher. She runs the passport division of the U.S. State Department and is an incredibly efficient lady; her division actually returns a profit to the U.S. Treasury on its operations. She is also a nonsense person when it comes to speaking her mind.

When Bill Rogers, the Secretary of State, said in so many words that "I regard it of compelling importance that we remain alert to better use of our resources so that different viewpoints are heard and creative ideas brought out," Frances Knight's response to the implied invitation was to let fly with a criticism of the State Department's traditional "use of resources." She was relying on the Secretary's reiteration of President Nixon's policy of maintaining "a receptive and open establishment." Said Nixon, "We would bring dissenters into policy discussions, not freeze them out." In short, let a hundred flowers bloom.

Alas for Miss Knight, she has had a good demonstration that nobody really likes criticism. That State Department Task Force which had recommended outspokenness didn't mean her when they said "subordinates must find the courage to disagree with supervisors when they believe the supervisor is wrong. They must break out of the pattern of conformity which has far too long been the besetting sin of the Foreign Service."

Miss Knight's punishment for her sins of outspokenness took the form of an investigation of her 1969 and 1970 Christmas greeting letters. Since I am on Miss Knight's Christmas card list, I can testify that her annual greeting consists among other things of a perfectly harmless and quite informative recital of the accomplishments of the passport division.

Without bothering to ask Miss Knight, some of her superiors apparently assumed that she had prepared the Christmas greetings on office time and had used office supplies in getting them out.

The administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, ostensibly to prepare for Congressional subcommittee hearings, asked Miss Knight for information about "copies and the number distributed of all 'Christmas Greetings'..." The administrator wanted a full list of those receiving the Christmas cards and the "names of all State Department personnel, if any, involved in drafting, preparation, procurement of supplies for, typing, reproducing, collating, enveloping or mailing any of these 'Greetings' on official time."

Another request was whether any official funds were used to get the Christmas cards out. The press was tipped off about the imminent scalping of Miss Knight.

Now you would have thought, wouldn't you, that a simple telephone call to Miss Knight would have saved the government the expense of getting out a detailed questionnaire for circulation and for Miss Knight's reply. She could have saved the department a pretty penny if she had been given the opportunity of telling the truth in a sentence: Her Christmas card was done at no expense to the U.S. government. As it happens, the State Department might have caused Miss Knight's husband, Wayne Parrish, a little embarrassment. The Christmas card happened to have been typed in his office and mailed to Miss Knight's personal list. Mr. Parrish even sent one of his own secretaries out to buy the stamps. Mr. Parrish's employer, the publishing company which owns his magazines, might raise a question or two about the use of the premises for mailing Christmas cards. But private industry, thank heaven, is not as petty as a U.S. government bureaucracy. When 'tis the season to be jolly, good-will is served by not regarding employees as time-servers. If you can drink egg nog on office time, why boggle about a few Christmas cards?

Besides, Mr. Parrish makes money for his employer — just as Miss Knight makes money for the State Department, the old Scrooges.

Christians Spend Most On Selves

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — American church people are spending less on themselves, more on others. But they still use the bulk of their religious resources for their own spiritual benefit. This aspect of church life showed up in some recently compiled statistics. Although a key Christian teaching is to help others, particularly those in need, the figures show that most modern Christians still spend their funds largely on their own congregational upkeep. In only a few denominations does the big part of church money go to serving others, beyond the church door. According to the summary compiled by the National Council of Churches, 88.84 per cent of religious contributions is used by congregations for their own internal operations.

An average of only 21.16 per cent is passed on to broader benevolent purposes, locally, nationally and abroad. That proportion is slowly rising, however, and is up 3.36 per cent from the 17.8 per cent of 10 years ago.

The trend suggests an increasing concern for those beyond the sanctuary.

Some denominations reflect that impulse much more than others, notably the Seventh-day Adventists, a relatively small church of 407,766 people. Last year, they contributed $148 million, 72 per cent of it going to hospitals, schools and other benevolent causes beyond the local congregations.

This amounted to an average $350.96 apiece, topping the list. They kept only 28 per cent of it for their own congregations.

Comparatively, the 1.5 million American Baptists—three times the Adventists in numbers—contributed a lesser total, $125 million or $86.05 apiece, and kept 83 per cent of it in their local congregational budgets.

Only 17 per cent went to wider benevolences.

Some other major denominations—whose per capita giving was about the same or lower—were even more self-absorbed in their spending.

For example, the Southern Baptists, Episcopalians, United Methodists and United Church of Christ members (including Congregationalists) passed on about 15 per cent of their receipts to causes beyond their own congregations.

They used the other 85 per cent within their folds.

Lutherans generally were less parochial about it. The Lutheran Church in America, the biggest body of that branch, forwarded on more than 22 per cent of its money to general causes.

For the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, it was 21 per cent, and for the American Lutheran Church, 19 per cent.

United Presbyterians did about the same—19 per cent—and the Southern Presbyterians put 22 per cent of their money into general benevolences.

MRS. JAMES D. ROOKER

The Broad Street Presbyterian Church of Columbus was the setting for the marriage of Miss Anna May Styers and Mr. James D. Rooker. Dr. Alvin Duane Smith officiated the double ring ceremony 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 2.

Miss Styers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Styers, residents of Waynesville. Mr. Rooker is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Marion D. Rooker, Route 4, Circleville.

The church altar was adorned with four seven branch candelabra and an arrangement of white snowdrift pompons, pink and white carnations and huckleberry foliage. The pews were marked with white bows and huckleberry leaves.

Mrs. Walter Lange, organist and Mr. James Leckrone, soloist, presented a half hour of pre-nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding a floor length gown of white delustered satin with a wedding band neckline and bishop sleeves. The gown extended from a fitted bodice into an A-line skirt. The neckline, sleeves and front panel were trimmed with Swiss guipure lace. The detachable chapel train was also trimmed with lace appliques. The headpiece was of the same material as the gown with matching lace and a triple tiered silk illusion veil. The bride carried a colonial arrangement of straw flowers in shades of pink with white velvet streamers.

Mrs. Cecil Stauffer, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a dusk rose floor length gown of dupioni silk with a fitted bodice, short puff sleeves and an A-line skirt. The back featured unpressed pleats accented by an empire bow. She wore a veil headpiece matching the dress. She carried a colonial arrangement of pink sweetheart roses, white snowdrift pompons, pink puffs and huckleberry leaves with pink velvet streamers.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Alvin Perdition, Mrs. Lawrence Miga, Mrs. James Walter, Miss Deborah Heiskell and Miss Beth Rooker, sister of the groom, wore gowns and headpieces identical to the honor attendant in pomegranate color. They carried colonial arrangements of pink roses and white snowdrift pompons.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Stauffer, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed as the honor attendants and carried a basket of pink straw flowers with a white velvet bow.

Mr. Cecil Stauffer, brother-in-law of the bride, served the groom as best man. Ushers were Mr. Jeffrey Styers, brother of the bride, Mr. Stephen Smith, cousin of the bride, Mr. Vinton Dorsey, cousin of the groom, Mr. James Walter and Mr. Lawrence Miga.

After repeating their vows the bride and groom presented their mothers with rose buds from the altar.

Mrs. Styers was attired in an aqua silk shantung A-line dress with a long-sleeved jacket. Mrs. Rooker select-

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

TV Repairman Should Be Shut Off

DEAR ABBY: I was having trouble with my TV set so I called a TV repairman who lives in my neighborhood. I called him at his place of business and he came right over and fixed it at the set. I asked him to tell me how much it would cost to fix the set and he smiled and said, "That all depends on how nice you are to me."

We both laughed, and, of course, I thought he was joking. Then he took the set to his shop and said he'd bring it back in a week. Well, after two weeks I called him and asked when he was going to bring my set back and he said, "When your husband isn't home." That's where we stand. How do I get my set back without causing a lot of trouble? If my husband knew about this he would take that punk apart.

KENWOOD
DEAR KENWOOD: Call that self-styled Casanova and tell him that if he doesn't have your set back today, you will tell your husband and report him to the Better Business Bureau. I don't think you will have to wait long.

DEAR ABBY: I have the worst problem of them all. I am only 21 years old, have been married for six years and we have three children. My husband is a responsible, hard-working young man. He works the swing shift all the time. That's not bad, but he also works weekends every chance he gets. When he isn't working weekends he looks for spare jobs, and when he isn't working he is too tired for anything else.

We don't have any friends and he doesn't care to go out any place. We are financially well off as he doesn't have any hobbies and likes to save his money.

I find myself lonely and bored. I am not asking for an overly exciting life, but I would like to be with people or go dancing once in a while. I love him and my family very much, but does married life have to be so dull? He used to be alive once. He is only 24. Please tell me what to do.

EXISTING IN CONN.
DEAR EXISTING: First, you will have to set your workhorse down and tell him to unbuckle the harness. Talk to him and find out what is driving him out of the house. Let him know that before rigor mortis sets into your marriage you need a little social life. (It's usually up to the wife to make the friends and arrange an evening "out"-or in with others.) Don't just let time pass without making an effort to sharpen up your dull lives. It's your move.

DEAR ABBY: Will you be kind enough to remind your readers that when a husband dies, his widow does not lose the right to his full name?

It makes one feel that those who address her as "Mrs. Mary Jones" ignore the fact that her husband could be very much alive in her heart!

It is my understanding that a woman becomes "Mrs. Mary Jones" only when she is divorced. When widowed, she remains "Mrs. Bill Jones" unless she remarries.

For more than two years I've been receiving correspondence from friends who have dropped the use of my husband's first name. And in the church bulletin, whenever my name is included with married women, they are referred to as "Mrs. John Smith," and I am "Mrs. Mary Jones."

This may seem like a small thing, but when a woman has had a good marriage, it is like a slap in the face to have his very existence denied.

I know many people who read your column are unaware of this slight, and am hopeful this gentle reminder will enlighten them. Respectfully and proudly,

MRS. JOHN JONES
DEAR MRS. JOHN JONES: I'll remind my readers again. Many a widow is sure to sigh silently, "I don't care what people call me as long as they call me. Gee, I'm lonesome."

Sunday's outlook shows partly cloudy skies in most sections of the state, except for snow flurries in the Northeast.

Lower Voting Age Hearings Are Continued

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A joint state legislative committee was today to conduct a hearing here to decide whether 18 year olds should have the right to vote in state and local elections.

In hearings held in six cities so far, the committee has had only seven persons voicing opposition.

Of 29 persons testifying Thursday in Canton only five opposed lowering the voting age. Four cited lack of maturity on the part of 18 year olds as their prime reason for opposing the proposal to lower the voting age. The fifth, claimed it was a "Communist conspiracy."

The committee earlier Thursday conducted a hearing in Cleveland where all 30 persons who testified said they were in favor of lowering the voting age.

A U.S. Supreme Court ruling holds that 18 year olds can vote in national elections.

The committee, chaired by State Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Cincinnati, and State Rep. Fred Young, R-Dayton, is holding hearings around the state before recommending whether a constitutional amendment should be placed on the November ballot.

CHS Senior Selected To Honor Band

Outstanding instrumental students from seven states comprised the enrollment of the Honor Band at Morehead State University Band Clinic Feb. 19-21.

Selected to this band was Arlene Walters, a Circleville High School senior band member and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walters, E. Union St.

To be a member of this fine performing group, students had to pass an audition of sight reading and scales. It was under the direction of Dr. William Revelli who heads the University of Michigan band.

Honor Band members later performed a concert with their music ranging in time from 1700 to 1970. They played with such precision that their performance received a standing ovation from the audience.

Delegates Return From Arizona Service Mission

Four members of the Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church in Logan Elm Village recently returned from a crusade service trip to the Southwest Indian School in Glendale, Ariz.

Mrs. Geneva Ullman, Mrs. Janet Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rittinger traveled to Arizona with Rev. Maurice Stevens, Kentucky, who is president and director of Missionary World Service and Evangelism.

They were part of a group of 24 crusaders from six states which spent 11 days working at the school.

Persons of all professions joined in the tour with the interest of creating a closer fellowship with the American Indian and helping the school in operation. Workers were engaged in building a room for isolation onto the medical home, constructing sidewalks around the campus, completing numerous repairs.

Women joined to arrange library volumes to meet state requirements and repaired worn volumes, did mending and office work.

Students, many of their parents and Indian ministers joined the crusade members in evening revival services in the schools new campus chapel.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

...Includes a selling profit!

Unless you can sell your home for a good price, you didn't get your money's worth when you bought. Let's look ahead... imagine time has passed... the day has come when you want to sell your home... perhaps to move to another area... or maybe not... maybe you simply want to borrow some money... to buy more land, or for a business investment, or family emergency. This is the time you'll really find out whether you got your money's worth when you bought.

But NOW... before you buy is the time to consider selling... to ask yourself these questions, "Is it reasonable to think I can sell for a good price?"... or, "Will the home I buy have loan value... will my hard-earned money be there when I need it... or will it be lost, never to be regained, because of depreciation?"

BE SURE... be as sure as you can that you get your money's worth when you buy. Make certain that the home you invest in is permanently constructed with quality materials... that it's custom-built on your land... a home that you will be proud of... one that will make your property grow in value.

U.S. And British Oil Companies Study Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Continental Oil Co., a U.S. firm, and British Petroleum Co., Ltd., of Britain, said Thursday they were negotiating to combine their assets and operations.

Continental has assets of about $3 billion, British Petroleum has assets of about $2 billion.

The announcement was made by John G. McLean, president of Conoco, and Nicholas J.D. Williams, managing director of British Petroleum.

They said that putting together such a multinational company would require extended negotiations and approvals by the U.S. and British governments.

If negotiations are successful, they said, proposals would be submitted to stockholders of both companies.

Soviets Rap 'Escalation'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union declared Thursday it "cannot remain indifferent to the new escalation of the American aggression" in Indochina.

A government statement said "the invasion of the United States in Laos and the threats to step up provocations" against North Vietnam "can make the search for paths toward a peaceful settlement ... more difficult."

"The Soviet people are prepared to continue giving all necessary aid to the fraternal Democratic Republic of Vietnam, to the patriots of Indochina defending their legitimate rights, fighting for the realization of their vital interests and aspirations," said the statement, carried in the government newspaper Izvestia and distributed by Tass, the official news agency.

The statement asserted it was a "dangerous delusion" that the United States can act with impunity in Indochina and entails "the most serious consequences, above all for the United States itself."

U.S. And British Oil Companies Study Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Continental Oil Co., a U.S. firm, and British Oil Co., Ltd., of Britain said Thursday they were negotiating to combine their assets and operations.
Continental has assets of about $3 billion, Burmah's assets total about $2 billion.
The announcement was made by John G. McLean, president of Conoco, and Nicholas J.D. Williams, managing director of Burmah.
They said that putting together such a multinational company would require extended negotiations and approvals by the U.S. and British governments.
If negotiations are successful, they said, proposals would be submitted to stockholders of both companies.

Soviets Rap 'Escalation'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union declared Thursday it "cannot remain indifferent to the new escalation of the American aggression" in Indochina.
A government statement said "the invasion of the United States in Laos and the threats to step up provocations" against North Vietnam "can make the search for paths toward a peaceful settlement ... more difficult."
"The Soviet people are prepared to continue giving all necessary aid to the fraternal Democratic Republic of Vietnam, to the patriots of Indochina defending their legitimate rights, fighting for the realization of their vital interests and aspirations," said the statement, carried in the government newspaper Izvestia and distributed by Tass, the official news agency.
The statement asserted it was a "dangerous delusion" that the United States can act with impunity in Indochina and entails "the most serious consequences, above all for the United States itself."

If we could build a fence around the world, would we respect our limitations and live happily with one another? Would we stop wars? Probably not!

You can fence in physical objects but not the minds and hearts of mankind.

Red Cross To Assist Fund Drive

Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross Board of Directors met in brief session Wednesday night to hear committee reports and vote one issue.

All members present favored Red Cross organization assistance to the 1971 Community Fund drive. The local chapter will assume responsibility for planning and operation of county collections.

Red Cross is one of the nine local agencies that receives financial support from Community Fund. In 1969, the chapter board first organized as a group to solicit for Community Fund directing their efforts to areas of the county where solicitation had been infrequent. This participation in the annual fund campaign was continued in 1970.

It was reported Wednesday that there are currently six Red Cross First Aid courses being offered throughout the area. John Harbaugh is instructing classes at Orient State Hospital, Lowell Ferguson, boy scouts, Jack Smison, public, and Bob Featherinham, volunteer firemen units.

MRS. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary reported on service to 52 military families since Jan. 27 involving 47 long distance phone calls.

Assistance was given to requests for emergency leave, health and welfare, hardships discharges, loans, fund transmittals, a birth message, assistance in completing forms and miscellaneous counseling.

Board members were reminded of the upcoming visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville March 5.

Plans are being completed for the annual Red Cross meeting April 28. The 1971 slate of officers will be presented and recognition services will be held.

Present at the monthly session were Chapter Chairman Howard Judd, Bob Scranton, Mrs. Herman Will, Mrs. Jack Clark, Mrs. Ben Brian, Mrs. Henry Mankey, Mrs. John Sanders, Mrs. J. B. Stout, E. E. Reynolds, Phil Pfeiffer, Mrs. William Winter and Dick Wylie.

Red Cross To Assist Fund Drive

Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross Board of Directors met in brief session Wednesday night to hear committee reports and vote one issue.

All members present favored Red Cross organization assistance to the 1971 Community Fund drive. The local chapter will assume responsibility for planning and operation of county collections.

Red Cross is one of the nine local agencies that receives financial support from Community Fund. In 1969, the chapter board first organized as a group to solicit for Community Fund directing their efforts to areas of the county where solicitation had been infrequent. This participation in the annual fund campaign was continued in 1970.

It was reported Wednesday that there are currently six Red Cross First Aid courses being offered throughout the area. John Harbaugh is instructing classes at Orient State Hospital, Lowell Ferguson, boy scouts, Jack Simson, public, and Bob Featheringham, volunteer firemen units.

MRS. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary reported on service to 52 military families since Jan. 27 involving 47 long distance phone calls.

Assistance was given to requests for emergency leave, health and welfare, hardships discharges, loans, fund transmittals, a birth message, assistance in completing forms and miscellaneous counseling.

Board members were reminded of the upcoming visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville March 5.

Plans are being completed for the annual Red Cross meeting April 28. The 1971 slate of officers will be presented and recognition services will be held.

Present at the monthly session were Chapter Chairman Howard Judd, Bob Scanton, Mrs. Herman Will, Mrs. Jack Clark, Mrs. Ben Brian, Mrs. Henry Mankey, Mrs. John Sanders, Mrs. J. B. Stout, E. E. Reynolds, Phil Pfeiffer, Mrs. William Winter and Dick Wylie.

The Red and Black Matmen Take Crown In League

ALL-LEAGUE HONORS — These seven Tiger grapplers showed other competitors in the South Central League and now have plans to go all out in state wrestling matches. Selected as all-league matmen for Circleville were: kneeling, Doug Good, Jeff Harr, Dave Webb; rear, Tom Frericks, Doyle Kiser, Mark Davey, Bill Fowler.

By CHRIS LONG

Circleville has one more thing to be proud of in the Circleville sports world. The Tiger matmen have captured the SCOL crown in the tough grappling competition at Miami Trace Feb. 23.

Capturing all-league honors for our fierce group were: Doyle Kiser, 145 lbs., Dave Webb, 133 lbs., Jeff Harr, 129 lbs., Doug Good, 155 lbs., Bill Fowler, 175 lbs., Mars Davey, 185 lbs., and Tom Frericks, heavyweight.

Doyle Kiser, a strong competitor and a never-quiet guy, has honored our school and himself for the past three years by winning all-league in his weight class. Doyle finished his regular season with an impressive 18-2 record before going into the sectionals.

Dave Webb, a young but experienced sophomore, has started his high school wrestling career with quite a bit of success. He not only won all-league honors, but also finished the season with an 18-0-1 record before going into the sectionals.

Jeff Harr, who has wrestled for two years in high school, has finally achieved one of his goals. Being a junior this year and having won the league honors, Jeff is hoping to improve his final record by finishing high in the sectionals and going on to the state.

Doug Good, one of the finest leg wrestlers in the area, has bestowed upon himself a real deserving honor. Doug has worked hard at receiving his quick moves and great endurance. When Doug would put his Circleville famous figure "four" on an opponent, everyone knew it was all over. Doug finished with an impressive 14-7 record, and is looking forward to the sectional meet tomorrow at Upper Arlington.

Bill Fowler, one of the most feared wrestlers in this district, is out to capture state honors this year after having won all-league and finishing the regular season with a very fine record of 19 wins and no losses.

Mark Davey, one of the strongest and smartest wrestlers in Circleville, has diligently finished his season by winning all-league, having the quickest pin of 19 seconds, and finishing his season with a 16-1-1 record. Mark would like to finish his junior wrestling year by going to state competition.

Tom Frericks, one of the biggest sophomores ever at Circleville, will go into his junior wrestling year with quite a few accomplishments for a sophomore. Tom finished his season by winning all-league honors, having an 18-2 record and having the most pins on the team, 16.

Congratulations are in order for these seven fine wrestlers along with the rest of the team and Coach Brent Bell for their fine accomplishments.

Meet Our Staff

By LINDA HUTCHISON, DIANA FRAZIER, DEBRA SCHNEIDER, and NORMA SHEPHERD

If you see a smiling, short-haired girl sitting in class knitting, it may be Linda Struckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Struckman of 329 E. Main St.

LINDA STRUCKMAN

Besides knitting, Linda enjoys boating, sewing and music. Although these hobbies keep this friendly girl busy, she still finds time to be active in the Lutheran Church and Curtain Callers.

Currently in the general course of study, the 17-year-old senior plans to attend Morehead State University after graduation. Because she likes to work with fabrics and color, Linda intends to major in interior decoration.

Linda stated that she took journalism because, "I thought it would be interesting to work on the Red and Black page, and so far, this has proved to be true."

Debra Schneider, 16, an 'old' now student who was never interviewed when she first came to CHS, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Schneider. They reside at 510 Garden Parkway with her sisters, Amy, 10, and Barbara, 13.

DEBRA SCHNEIDER

Debra's hobbies are ping pong, pool, reading and animals. Debra has a variety selection of animals including five mice, a parakeet, a couple of tanks of fish and a guinea pig and a dog.

When asked why she took journalism, she replied, "Because it is fun and I enjoy writing."

Debra is active in the Science Club, Rainbow Girls, Curtain Callers and she was prompter for the Junior Class Play. Her future plans include college and she hopes to marry a veterinarian.

Somewhat shy but full of energy, Debra can "talk up a storm."

Linda Hutchison is an 18-year-old senior of CHS. She resides with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hutchison, at 438 E. Ohio St. Living with her is her twin sister, Debbie. Linda also has three other sisters: Margaret, Marilyn and Beatrice.

Our adventurous senior is interested in singing, crocheting, camping and hiking. She is active in the school choir, the church choir and FHS, in which she is the secretary.

LINDA HUTCHISON

When Linda was asked what she thought of journalism and why she took it, she replied, "It's really great!" After thinking a moment, she concluded, "I was interested in writing and learning more about it."

After graduation from CHS, Linda plans to go to nursing school and begin working in a hospital.

Hatred Developed For Concrete

KIDDERMINSTER, England (AP) — Six years ago, at the age of 56, Mill Moore suddenly was stricken with prime hatred for concrete.

"I walked into the town center one day and there was this horrible office block and all that concrete jungle," the proprietor of a liquor store said. "I thought that's it, if that's what they're doing to Kidderminster, I don't want to see it."

He has gone so far as to pay a barber to come out to his edge-of-town home for his regular haircuts.

1971 SWEETHEART — Senior Mary Beth Rhoads and her Romeo, Chris Long, stand amid the paper flowers on the garden setting erected by the SOS Club for their annual Sweetheart Dance. Theme of the evening formal dance was "A Time for Us" from "Romeo and Juliet." Mary Beth's attendants were Emily Moon and Carole Wylie.

Castle Scene Highlights Annual Winter Formal Dance

By SANDY ANKROM

It was a girl-ask-boy dance with a Romeo and Juliet atmosphere and a newly chosen queen.

On Feb. 20, the SOS Club held their annual Sweetheart Dance. The theme was "A Time For Us" and the gym was turned into the castle of Verona. The evening was filled with soft music by the "Classmates."

Highlighting the dance was the coronation of this year's Sweetheart Queen. Crowned as queen was Miss Mary Beth Rhoads. Her escort was Chris Long. Mary Beth is the daughter of Frank Rhoads, Northridge Road. She is the president of the SOS Club and last year served as the publicity chairman. She has spent many hard working hours for this well deserved honor.

Escorting the first attendant, Miss Emily Moon, was Dennis Jackson. Emily is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moon of 1125 McGraw Road. Emily is this year's SOS recording secretary. She is a very active member and works hard for the club's success.

Chosen as second attendant was Miss Carole Wylie, escorted by Dennis Shaw. Carole is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Richard Wylie of 369 Markley Drive. Carole is SOS vice president and, like the others, has spent a lot of time working for the club in many of its different activities.

The queen and her court are chosen by the hours of work they have done for the club and by secret ballot voting of all SOS members.

Track Season Now Opened

By BILL MCGOWAN

Circleville's track season officially started Feb. 13 when the "trackers" ran at Ohio State's French Field House.

Many of the boys did exceptionally well in the meet consequently, Jim Lint, the CHS track coach, was pleased with the runner's performance this early in the season.

Teams competing in the track meet were: Marion River Valley, Mifflin, Granville, Groveport, Delaware, De Sales, Carroll and Circleville.

Circleville placed first in the mile relay — the team consisting of: Gary Robbins, Jeff Hoffman, Dick Radcliff and Joe McGowan. Tom Shea received fourth place honors in the 60-yard dash; Steve Richards received fourth in the mile run; Gary Spangler received fourth in the high hurdles. The 880-yard relay team of Tom Shea, Greg Dearth, Gary Owens and Iain Griffee, received fifth place.

Track season is under way, and it looks as if it could be Circleville's best track team ever. Support CHS's track team by coming to all track events.

High School 'Y' Team Wins Title

By BILL MCGOWAN

Circleville's YMCA's high school basketball has just ended, and six senior boys composed the championship team. They are: Jim Mogan, Mike Webb, Harold Smith, Gary Robbins, Chris Long, and Bill McGowan, captain.

There were four teams in the league, and this was the second year the league has been in existence. The winners were 12-0 for the season, and two teams were tied for second place with a 6-6 record. The last place team had an 0-12 record for the season.

The winners will now travel to Dayton to participate in the Southwestern Region Tournament of YMCA teams sometime in March.

1971 SWEETHEART — Senior Mary Beth Rhoads and her Romeo, Chris Long, stand amid the paper flowers on the garden setting erected by the SOS Club for their annual Sweetheart Dance. Theme of the evening formal dance was "A Time for Us" from "Romeo and Juliet." Mary Beth's attendants were Emily Moon and Carole Wylie.

Castle Scene Highlights Annual Winter Formal Dance

By SANDY ANKROM

It was a girl-ask-boy dance with a Romeo and Juliet atmosphere and a newly chosen queen.

On Feb. 20, the SOS Club held their annual Sweetheart Dance. The theme was "A Time For Us" and the gym was turned into the castle of Verona. The evening was filled with soft music by the "Classmates."

Highlighting the dance was the coronation of this year's Sweetheart Queen. Crowned as queen was Miss Mary Beth Rhoads. Her escort was Chris Long. Mary Beth is the daughter of Frank Rhoads, Northridge Road. She is the president of the SOS Club and last year served as the publicity chairman. She has spent many hard working hours for this well deserved honor.

Escorting the first attendant, Miss Emily Moon, was Dennis Jackson. Emily is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moon of 1125 McGraw Road. Emily is this year's SOS recording secretary. She is a very active member and works hard for the club's success.

Chosen as second attendant was Miss Carole Wylie, escorted by Dennis Shaw. Carole is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Richard Wylie of 369 Markley Drive. Carole is SOS vice president and, like the others, has spent a lot of time working for the club in many of its different activities.

The queen and her court are chosen by the hours of work they have done for the club and by secret ballot voting of all SOS members.

Track Season Now Opened

By BILL MCGOWAN

Circleville's track season officially started Feb. 13 when the "trackers" ran at Ohio State's French Field House.

Many of the boys did exceptionally well in the meet consequently, Jim Lint, the CHS track coach, was pleased with the runner's performance this early in the season.

Teams competing in the track meet were: Marion River Valley, Mifflin, Granville, Groveport, Delaware, De Sales, Carroll and Circleville.

Circleville placed first in the mile relay — the team consisting of: Gary Robbins, Jeff Hoffman, Dick Radcliff and Joe McGowan. Tom Shea received fourth place honors in the 60-yard dash; Steve Richards received fourth in the mile run; Gary Spangler received fourth in the high hurdles. The 880-yard relay team of Tom Shea, Greg Dearth, Gary Owens and Iain Griffey, received fifth place.

Track season is under way, and it looks as if it could be Circleville's best track team ever. Support CHS's track team by coming to all track events.

High School 'Y' Team Wins Title

By BILL MCGOWAN

Circleville's YMCA's high school basketball has just ended, and six senior boys composed the championship team. They are: Jim Mogan, Mike Webb, Harold Smith, Gary Robbins, Chris Long, and Bill McGowan, captain.

There were four teams in the league, and this was the second year the league has been in existence. The winners were 12-0 for the season, and two teams were tied for second place with a 6-6 record. The last place team had an 0-12 record for the season.

The winners will now travel to Dayton to participate in the Southwestern Region Tournament of YMCA teams sometime in March.

DECA WINNERS — Five students in the CHS Distributive Education course took first place in the District DECA contest at Chillicothe last week. From the left are Allen Trego, Angie Justice, Kathy Kochensparger and Tom Anderson, who earned honors in different areas of competition. Not shown is Roberta Zimmerman. Seven other Circleville students placed among the top three positions in the testing program.

Merit Society Originated At CHS In 1927

By PATTI CRAIG
In 1927 Mr. W. N. Griffith organized the Epsilon Mu or English Merit Society. The purpose of the society is to encourage better English students, add to the betterment of English usage by debates, composition of such literary and scientific exercises as it may deem proper and serve as an honor to those diligent, faithful students meriting praise and reward.

Gladys Harris was first president, Mary Margaret Moore, vice president and Margie Hunsicker, secretary.

Those pupils having yearly averages in English of 90 or above were qualified to attain membership.

Miss Kuhlman and Miss Watson were the teacher-advisers.

The present adviser, Mr. Walter Sale, English III teacher, has great plans for EMS. He wishes the club to arrange a television program with the use of the Audio-Visual Department's video taperecorder.

Members are also planning a poetry contest for the annual "Hairs From the Tiger's Tail," magazine of which they are in charge.

Another activity of EMS is a party for underprivileged children in the Circleville school district held each year.

Officers are Mary Beth Rhoads, chairman; Nancy Horst, vice chairman; and Jane Brudzinski, secretary.

The qualification for membership is an average of 3.5 or better for the preceding year.

The society is purely honorary and is therefore not an active club.

Past Music Grads Sought

Tigers Building Sports Empire

By JIM MOGAN and DOYLE KISER

CHS is becoming a sports empire in the SCOL league as it won its fifth consecutive league title.

This string of winning began last year when Coach Jim Lint "cleaned up" with his cindermen, and Coach Danny Fouts swamped the SCOL with his baseball 9-1 league record.

Denny Williams was the mid-point as this year's football team captured the SCOL league title with a very impressive 10-0 season. Mr. John Lawhorn and Coach Brent Bell added the last two winnings as Lawhorn won the basketball championship and Bell won the wrestling.

Congratulations go to the entire CHS sports department!

Data Shows Supreme Court Moving Toward The Right

By BARRY SCHWEID Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court at mid-point in the 1970-71 term is moving right, away from the liberalism of the Warren years and toward the conservatism of President Nixon.

The trend is not entirely uniform. Women have won some measure of equal job rights and just Wednesday the court lifted the shadow of libel judgments from newspapers that delve into the personal backgrounds of political candidates.

But even if there are exceptions, the point to keep in mind is that Nixon has the capacity to accelerate the rightward move if a vacancy occurs while he is in the White House.

Presidents have been disappointed with the men they put on the court. Theodore Roosevelt was astonished at the liberalism of Oliver Wendell Holmes and Dwight D. Eisenhower was equally surprised by Earl Warren. Nixon is keeping his own counsel, but it should be hard to imagine him but pleased with the way Chief Justice Warren, E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun have turned out.

The greatest single force in the court's rightward shift is the implacable conservatism of Burger and Blackmun.

In 47 decisions this term the two Nixon appointees have been on the same side 45 times. Their two votes often have carried the day.

Had they given their consent, Massachusetts would have had a hearing on its suit attacking constitutionality of the Vietnam war.

Without them, the court could not have authorized welfare officials to cut off aid to women who refuse to admit caseworkers to their homes.

Still, there is evidence that while conservatives are gaining control their hold is not yet firm. Twelve decisions were decided by 5-4 votes.

And while it is not too early to discern a trend the term has four long months to run. A large number of big issues remain, among them school busing to achieve racial balance, death penalty procedures and the status of conscientious objectors to the Vietnam war.

Basketball Team Earns SCOL Title

By CAROLE WYLIE

We did it! The 1970-71 basketball team has brought CHS another league title. Along with the title came special honors for four Tiger players.

Senior John Hunt, and junior Terry Morrison, won places on the SCOL all-league first team.

John, our 6'3" center, never let spectators forget he was there, and by the end of the season found his name in the school records. Terry, known in some circles as the "Tow-head Tornado," turned many an eye with his fantastic ball handling.

Selected to the second team was Dave Truex, the only sophomore on the entire slate of outstanding league players.

Dave's ability to come up with the ball and his speed is getting it into the basket made several CHS games turn from defeat to victory in the last few minutes of play.

Among those receiving honorable mention was Tiger senior, Tom Bowers. Tom's devotion to the team and will to play basketball brought him through another fine season.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court ruled Wednesday a Cleveland city charter amendment, approved by voters last November, was invalid because it was improperly placed on the ballot.

The court said city council must set the date for any special election.

Reorganization Of Arby's OK'd

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Joseph T. Molitoris has given Arby's International, Inc., of Youngstown permission to reorganize in an effort to save the company.

Molitoris issued injunctions Wednesday prohibiting any creditors, shareholders, franchise holders or others from interfering with operation of the company by the present management, giving Arby's a chance to clear up its debts.

The reorganization also involves Arby's wholly-owned subsidiary, Raffel Bros., Inc., which handles equipment and supplies and design and sale of restaurants, chiefly to Arby's franchise holders.

Not involved are 350 Arby's restaurants in the nation operated by independent franchise holders. Arby's owns and operates another 50 itself.

Max Silver, president of Arby's, said that high-priced products such as its 79-cent roast beef sandwich, caused the financial difficulties because of the present "recession."

The Circleville Herald, Fri. Feb. 26, 1971 13
Circleville, Ohio

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Circleville can indeed be proud of its high school athletic program attested to by the fact the Tiger teams walked away with four championships at the annual South Central Ohio League banquet at Miami Trace this week.

We have attended quite a few of these banquets and are definitely in favor of them — anything that bestows honor on these fine young athletes is worthwhile.

However, we would like to offer some constructive criticism which in our humble opinion could make them better.

At the fall football banquet the speaker was Dr. Jerry Walke, head basketball coach at Urbana College, and the speaker at this week's winter banquet was Vince Costello, former National Football League linebacker and now assistant coach with the Cincinnati Bengals.

Both men did a fine job and we are taking nothing away from them. We do feel it would have been much more effective if they had been reversed — basketball speaking to basketball and football relating to football. Just a suggestion but could be worth considering.

We also felt the recognition given the wrestling champions was lacking and the boys deserved a little better fate.

We agree wholeheartedly with Paul Sarchet, principal of Circleville High School, who announced they were going to look into a better method of honoring spring sports athletes. Last year's baseball, track and golf teams were also recognized at this fete. Unfortunately, most of the young men had graduated and did not receive the recognition due them.

As Mr. Sarchet suggested, perhaps a late spring banquet could be arranged. We hope the league will take this into consideration in its future plans.

Our little gem of information — After 70 seasons, 1,482 games against each other, the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox are at a Mexican standoff. They are dead even with 741 wins apiece.

Our "fearless" forecast — Teays Valley over Fredericktown... Logan Elm will pickie Pickerington... Westfall to get revenge against Madison South... We dig Doug in the PGA.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Billy Williams Gets Price; Mays Loses Out On Terms

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs have made Iron Man Billy Williams their first $100,000 player but the San Francisco Giants don't intend to test William Mays' endurance with a 10-year contract.

Williams, who batted .322, crashed 42 home runs and extended his National League Record to 1,117 consecutive games before being rested on Sept. 3 last season, signed a six-figure contract Thursday shortly before the Cubs doled out about $65,000 to pitcher Ken Holtzman, completing the 1971 enrollment.

Mays, who'll be 40 years old in May, asked the Giants for a 10-year pact at $75,000 per season, but was instead offered the same salary figure over five years. He was paid well over $100,000 last season.

He said that under the long-term contract he would play as long as he could, then serve as a coach, instructor or public relations representative for the club.

The Philadelphia Phillies' infield, meanwhile, remained in a salary stalemate with General Manager John Quinn. First baseman Tony Taylor, shortstop Larry Bowa and third baseman Don Money want more cash, and the latter pair have hired an agent to negotiate for them and pitcher Chris Short.

"Nobody in the world needs help more than I do," explained Money, who batted .295 in his second major league season. "I'm just a country boy who barely made it through high school. Put me in an office with John Quinn and what chance do

I have? He's been going through these contract matters for 25 or 30 years."

Cincinnati's long list of unsigned regulars was reduced by one when outfielder Hal McRae agreed to salary terms. He joins shortstop Woody Woodward and second baseman Tommy Helms as the lone probable starters in the Reds' fold.

Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson, who held out for five weeks last spring after belting 47 homers in 1969, signed up for an estimated $50,000. Jackson hit only 23 homers last season and slipped from a .275 batting average in 1969 to .237.

Other signees included outfielder Bobby Murcer and third baseman Jerry Kenney of the New York Yankees, outfielder Curt Motton of Baltimore, pitcher Dennis Higgins of Cleveland, outfielder Byron Browne of the Phillies and infielder Frank Quilici of Minnesota.

Rookie infielder Ted Martinez, last of the missing New York Mets, arrived in camp with Francisco Estrada, a non-roster catcher who was to have reported a week ago, in tow. Estrada, it appears, lost his way. Martinez found him at the Miami airport and guided him to the Mets' St. Petersburg base.

Sparring Partner Is Spy For Ali

For three quarters both Circleville and Grandview found lids on the baskets at the Westerville High School gym. It was a nip and tuck fourth period that finally ended Circleville's basketball season as the Tigers dropped a 49-47 decision to the Bobcats in the opening round of the class AA sectional tournament Thursday night.

Both teams were frigid and found the baskets elusive as the third period ended with Circleville holding a narrow 26-24 margin.

Time after time the ball made its way toward the hoops only to roll away in a manner that was frustrating to both squads. Circleville managed to coax the ball into the basket six times in the first half although the Tigers gave it 26 chances. Grandview shared the same fate as they put the ball up 25 times in the first two periods and got five into the nets.

THE first period ended with the Tigers holding a 9-5 edge. At halftime Circleville was on the heavy end of a 17-15 margin and only raised the lead to 26-24 at the conclusion of the third period.

Both teams began to find the range in the fourth canto and with 4:11 left the Tigers had gained a 37-30 spread. Four consecutive foul shots by Tony Rosso cut the margin to 37-34 with 4:05 to go.

Foul shots by Tom Bowers and Dave Truex put the Tigers on top 41-36 at the 2:27 mark. Rob DeMuth hit a couple of buckets for the Bobcats and Truex countered for Circleville. John Hunt meshed a foul shot with 0:47 remaining to give Circleville a three point advantage, 47-44, and it appeared the Red and Black were in control.

However, DeMuth failed to realize this and converted two fouls to cut the gap to 47-46 and then stole the inbound pass for a bucket and the Bobcats were in front 48-47 with 0:34 to go.

The Tigers missed on a one and one and the Bobcats were in possession. A protest on a called foul brought a technical on the Tigers and DeMuth again stepped to the line and converted to give Grandview a 49-47 lead.

CIRCLEVILLE managed to regain the ball with four seconds remaining but a last second desperation shot went astray and a fine season by the Red and Black came to an end.

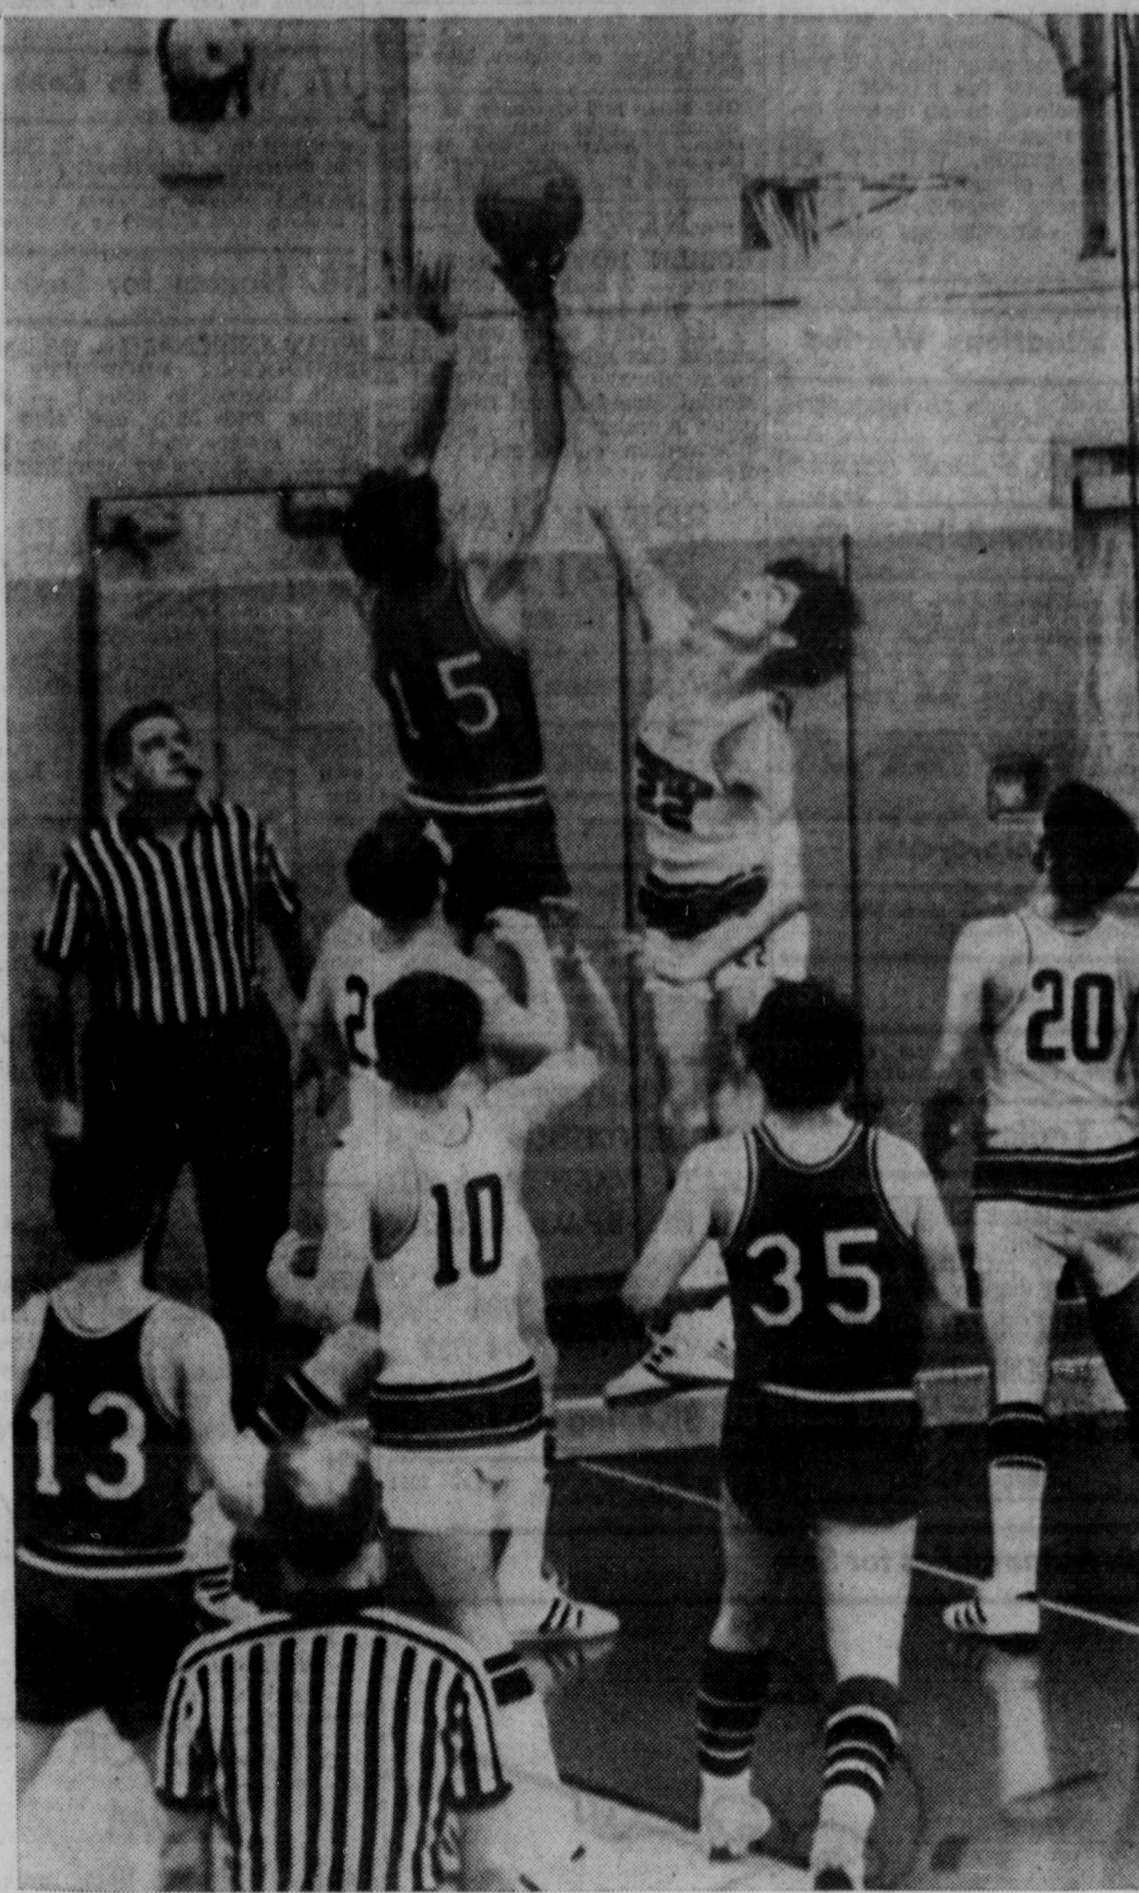

Don Valentine led the Tigers with 13 points, Truex added 12, Terry Morrison netted 11, John Hunt, who had been down with the flu all week, had nine and Tom Bowers had two.

DeMuth was the big man for Grandview with 19 markers and Mike Speakman added 11 to the winning total.

Grandview's height advantage came into play on the boards as they pulled down 34 rebounds to 25 for the Tigers. Hunt and Valentine led Circleville with eight each while Rick McCoy grabbed 14 for Grandview.

The Tigers hit 15 of 47 from the floor for 31 per cent and converted 17 of 31 from the charity stripe for 55 per cent.

Grandview made 18 of 48 from the floor for 37 per cent and meshed 13 of 19 from the free throw line for 68 per cent. Circleville ended the season with a 14-5 record and the

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Mother Nature simply refused to enlist in "Arnold's Army."

"My last chance was the rain. that didn't work out either."

Palmer shot a puny 75 on opening day of the 53rd PGA Championship. He was a world behind fellow super star Jack Nicklaus and a pack-commanding 69.

"The greens are the dominating factor in this championship said Palmer, "no matter what the weather."

Nicklaus and the morning crowd ripped PGA National Golf Club during relatively calm weather, a dozen breaking par on the tough 7,096-yard course.

It was different after lunch. Only four matinee shooters outdid the par 36-36-72 test while Palmer—with adoring thousands dying at his side—was crushing his own hope for an elusive first PGA title.

Former Masters champion Bob Goalby, red-faced Bobby Mitchell and left hander Bob Charles of New Zealand were closest to Nicklaus with two-under-par 70s.

The most severe challenge was looming from the star-spangled group at 71 that included ex-U.S. Open kings Julius Boros, Billy Casper, Gary Player, Lee Trevino and Tony Jacklin.

Included among Michigan State's 1971 football opponents are Sun Bowl winner Georgia Tech, Cotton Bowl king Notre Dame and Rose Bowl loser Ohio State.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Circleville can indeed be proud of its high school athletic program attested to by the fact the Tiger teams walked away with four championships at the annual South Central Ohio League banquet at Miami Trace this week.

We have attended quite a few of these banquets and are definitely in favor of them — anything that bestows honor on these fine young athletes is worthwhile.

However, we would like to offer some constructive criticism which in our humble opinion could make them better.

At the fall football banquet the speaker was Dr. Jerry Walke, head basketball coach at Urbana College, and the speaker at this week's winter banquet was Vince Costello, former National Football League linebacker and now assistant coach with the Cincinnati Bengals.

Both men did a fine job and we are taking nothing away from them. We do feel it would have been much more effective if they had been reversed — basketball speaking to basketball and football relating to football. Just a suggestion but could be worth considering.

We also felt the recognition given the wrestling champions was lacking and the boys deserved a little better fate.

We agree wholeheartedly with Paul Sarchet, principal of Circleville High School, who announced they were going to look into a better method of honoring spring sports athletes. Last year's baseball, track and golf teams were also recognized at this fete. Unfortunately, most of the young men had graduated and did not receive the recognition due them.

As Mr. Sarchet suggested, perhaps a late spring banquet could be arranged. We hope the league will take this into consideration in its future plans.

Our little gem of information — After 70 seasons, 1,482 games against each other, the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox are at a Mexican standoff. They are dead even with 741 wins apiece.

Our "fearless" forecast — Teays Valley over Fredericktown... Logan Elm will pickie Pickerington... Westfall to get revenge against Madison South... We dig Doug in the PGA.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Billy Williams Gets Price; Mays Loses Out On Terms

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs have made Iron Man Billy Williams their first $100,000 player but the San Francisco Giants don't intend to test William Mays' endurance with a 10-year contract.

Williams, who batted .322, crashed 42 home runs and extended his National League Record to 1,117 consecutive games before being rested on Sept. 3 last season, signed a six-figure contract Thursday shortly before the Cubs doled out about $65,000 to pitcher Ken Holtzman, completing the 1971 enrollment.

Mays, who'll be 40 years old in May, asked the Giants for a 10-year pact at $75,000 per season, but was instead offered the same salary figure over five years. He was paid well over $100,000 last season.

He said that under the long-term contract he would play as long as he could, then serve as a coach, instructor or public relations representative for the club.

The Philadelphia Phillies' infield, meanwhile, remained in a salary stalemate with General Manager John Quinn. First baseman Tony Taylor, shortstop Larry Bowa and third baseman Don Money want more cash, and the latter pair have hired an agent to negotiate for them and pitcher Chris Short.

"Nobody in the world needs help more than I do," explained Money, who batted .295 in his second major league season. "I'm just a country boy who barely made it through high school. Put me in an office with John Quinn and what chance do

I have? He's been going through these contract matters for 25 or 30 years."

Cincinnati's long list of unsigned regulars was reduced by one when outfielder Hal McRae agreed to salary terms. He joins shortstop Woody Woodward and second baseman Tommy Helms as the lone probable starters in the Reds' fold.

Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson, who held out for five weeks last spring after belting 47 homers in 1969, signed up for an estimated $50,000. Jackson hit only 23 homers last season and slipped from a .275 batting average in 1969 to .237.

Other signees included outfielder Bobby Murcer and third baseman Jerry Kenney of the New York Yankees, outfielder Curt Motton of Baltimore, pitcher Dennis Higgins of Cleveland, outfielder Byron Browne of the Phillies and infielder Frank Quilici of Minnesota.

Rookie infielder Ted Martinez, last of the missing New York Mets, arrived in camp with Francisco Estrada, a non-roster catcher who was to have reported a week ago, in tow. Estrada, it appears, lost his way. Martinez found him at the Miami airport and guided him to the Mets' St. Petersburg base.

Sparring Partner Is Spy For Ali

For three quarters both Circleville and Grandview found lids on the baskets at the Westerville High School gym. It was a nip and tuck fourth period that finally ended Circleville's basketball season as the Tigers dropped a 49-47 decision to the Bobcats in the opening round of the class AA sectional tournament Thursday night.

Both teams were frigid and found the baskets elusive as the third period ended with Circleville holding a narrow 26-24 margin.

Time after time the ball made its way toward the hoops only to roll away in a manner that was frustrating to both squads.

Circleville managed to coax the ball into the basket six times in the first half although the Tigers gave it 26 chances. Grandview shared the same fate as they put the ball up 25 times in the first two periods and got five into the nets.

THE first period ended with the Tigers holding a 9-5 edge. At halftime Circleville was on the heavy end of a 17-15 margin and only raised the lead to 26-24 at the conclusion of the third period.

Both teams began to find the range in the fourth canto and with 4:11 left the Tigers had gained a 37-30 spread. Four consecutive foul shots by Tony Rosso cut the margin to 37-34 with 4:05 to go.

Foul shots by Tom Bowers and Dave Truex put the Tigers on top 41-36 at the 2:27 mark. Rob DeMuth hit a couple of buckets for the Bobcats and Truex countered for Circleville.

John Hunt meshed a foul shot with 0:47 remaining to give Circleville a three point advantage, 47-44, and it appeared the Red and Black were in control.

However, DeMuth failed to realize this and converted two fouls to cut the gap to 47-46 and then stole the inbound pass for a bucket and the Bobcats were in front 48-47 with 0:34 to go.

The Tigers missed on a one and one and the Bobcats were in possession. A protest on a called foul brought a technical on the Tigers and DeMuth again stepped to the line and converted to give Grandview a 49-47 lead.

CIRCLEVILLE managed to regain the ball with four seconds remaining but a last second desperation shot went astray and a fine season by the Red and Black came to an end.

Don Valentine led the Tigers with 13 points, Truex added 12, Terry Morrison netted 11, John Hunt, who had been down with the flu all week, had nine and Tom Bowers had two.

DeMuth was the big man for Grandview with 19 markers and Mike Speakman added 11 to the winning total.

Grandview's height advantage came into play on the boards as they pulled down 34 rebounds to 25 for the Tigers. Hunt and Valentine led Circleville with eight each while Rick McCoey grabbed 14 for Grandview.

The Tigers hit 15 of 47 from the floor for 31 per cent and converted 17 of 31 from the charity stripe for 55 per cent.

Grandview made 18 of 48 from the field for 37 per cent and meshed 13 of 19 from the free throw line for 68 per cent.

Palmer Slow Starting At PGA Tilt

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Mother Nature simply refused to enlist in "Arnold's Army."

He couldn't even draft her. "Those putting greens are loaded with fertilizer and, with all that sun, you could almost hear them growing," said a downtrodden Arnold Palmer.

Amanda Edged From Tourney

Amanda was edged out of the tournament Thursday at Lancaster, losing to West Jefferson 77-75.

The aces were paced by David Kraft's 26 - point performance. Ike Wampler tallied 16 for the losers.

Amanda ended its cage season with a 9-10 mark while the Roughriders have won 11 games in 17 starts. West Jeff will play The Plains, top seeded team in the Lancaster Sectional, 2 p.m. Tuesday.

championship of the South Central Ohio League which gave them one of the best Tiger seasons in recent years.

"My last chance was the rain, that didn't work out either."

Palmer shot a puny 75 on opening day of the 53rd PGA Championship. He was a world behind fellow super star Jack Nicklaus and a pack-commanding 69.

"The greens are the dominating factor in this championship said Palmer, "no matter what the weather."

Nicklaus and the morning crowd ripped PGA National Golf Club during relatively calm weather, a dozen breaking par on the tough 7,096-yard course.

It was different after lunch. Only four matinee shooters outdid the par 36-36-72 test while Palmer—with adoring thousands dying at his side—was crushing his own hope for an elusive first PGA title.

Former Masters champion Bob Goalby, red-faced Bobby Mitchell and left hander Bob Charles of New Zealand were closest to Nicklaus with two-under-par 70s.

U.S. Losses Increase; 59 Gls Die

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command Thursday reported the highest weekly American death toll in Vietnam in 5 1/2 months. A spokesman said there still was no forward movement by South Vietnamese forces in Laos, and a South Vietnamese base 10 miles across the border was reported under heavy mortar and rocket attack for the third day.

The increase in American deaths for the second successive week was attributed to the offensive in Laos to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail. The U.S. Command's weekly casualty summary said 59 Americans were killed in action and another 42 died of non-hostile causes, including helicopter accidents.

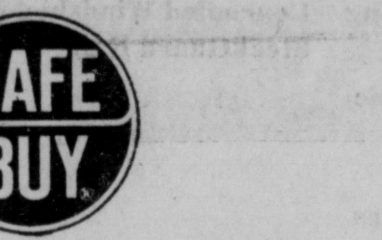

The total of 101 Americans was the largest since 125 died during the week of Aug. 30-Sept. 5 when 87 were killed in action and 38 died from accidents and illness.

The U.S. Command reported 217 American troops wounded in action last week, the same as the week before.

The Saigon government reported 432 South Vietnamese killed in action last week, 46 less than the week before, and 1,446 wounded, 287 more than the previous week. The U.S. Command claimed allied forces killed 2,260 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, the highest total claimed since last May.

U.S. officials say no American ground troops are taking part in the operation on the Laotian side of the border, but 9,000 of them are acting as a blocking force in the northern provinces of South Vietnam, and an estimated 500 U.S. helicopters are furnishing almost all of the air support for the South Vietnamese in Laos.

James E. Conrad, loan officer of The Second National Bank of Circleville was among the more than 50 bankers who attended the BancOhio Corporation Credit Forum held at the Neil House in Columbus, Feb. 23-25.

During the three-day credit forum given by BancOhio Corporation, with which The Second National Bank of Circleville is affiliated, Conrad heard bankers, attorneys and an investment dealer discuss the varying facets of credit and loans such as fair credit reporting, automobile and farm loans, corporate underwriting and the money market for the remainder of 1971.

The credit forum, given once a year for affiliate bankers in the lending field, is designed to give these men increased lending expertise so that they may better serve the need for loans in their respective counties.

Besides credit officers from BancOhio Corporation, speakers included Philip F. Searle, president of BancOhio, and Earl W. Palm, president of The Second National Bank of Circleville.

Senior Earns Top Ohio Legion Award

Mary Beth Rhoads has been named a winner in the state Americanism and Government test sponsored annually by the American Legion.

The Circleville High School senior is the first Pickaway County student to place in statewide competition.

Ora Davis, Youth Activities Chairman of the local Hall-Adkins Legion Post, revealed Mary Beth's test score as the highest of all senior winners in the state.

The test on Americanism and government was given to 78,000 students throughout Ohio last December. Twelve of these students were chosen for honors on the basis of their grade.

MARY BETH will accompany the other 11 winners on a ten day trip to the nation's capital Mar. 25. The tour will take them to historic Gettysburg, Pa., the White House, United States' Naval Academy Smithsonian Institute, Ford Theater and colonial Williamsburg.

The Ohio teens will also visit with Justice Potter Stewart of the Supreme Court and our state congressmen and attend a congressional luncheon.

Active in high school and student government affairs, she has attended Buckeye Girls
